We go to the announce table with Darren Keebler and Lance Warner.

DDK:

Welcome everyone, it's good to be back at the broadcast both and not at ringside!

Lance:

I developed some PTSD after DEFIANCE Road and the RUMINATION CHAMBER.

DDK:

You did not.

Lance:

You're right, I did not. Still trying to work on that evil persona everyone online wants me to develop.

DDK:

Never listen to anyone online, particularly Twitter.

Lance:

Noted.

DDK:

We have a great lineup for you tonight and I believe we're going to get started with a match. Wait, wait a second...

LOAD MANAGEMENT

Right off Keebler and Warner's greetings, the DEFtv song ends and is replaced, almost rather instantly.

♪ "300 Violin Orchestra" by Jorge Quintero -♪

Loud boos from the Pittsburgh Faithful but it doesn't take long for Tyler Fuse to appear from behind the FIST logo.

Lance:

Wow. We're not going to wait.

Fuse stands in black jeans and a faded white t-shirt, surveying the angry crowd.

DDK:

This is a surprise! I don't have Tyler on my schedule, but it is very much like him to get behind his actions. He was never going to hide. However, I didn't see him coming out... here. Tyler's not one to talk so openly.

Lance:

When you cost Dan Ryan the FIST of DEFIANCE at DEFIANCE Road, I'd say this is serious. I couldn't believe my eyes!

DDK:

What I couldn't believe was the second guessing. Tyler takes Ryan out, then decides it's best for Ryan to win the match anyway... only for him to switch his mind back to the original plan at the end, placing Malak's hand over the legend and securing Malak Garland's reign of terror even further!

Fuse continues to stand on the top of the rampway, looking through the ten-thousand fans. Eventually, he marches down to ringside.

Lance:

Well I, for one, echo Conor Fuse's sentiments that hell is coming for Tyler. Dan Ryan is NOT someone you screw over like that.

Tyler remains stone faced and focused on the ring in front of him. Upon arrival, he rolls under the bottom rope and asks for a mic.

DDK:

Listen, we've known Tyler Fuse for a long time. He's not going to back down from anyone. He's reached this high status after standing up to guys like Jack Harman, and defeating him at Jack's own game, but this is a new world for Tyler. I don't know if he wants to play in it.

Lance:

Game. World. Play. A lot of video game references there.

DDK:

We are far, far past those times. Particularly with Tyler. They were simply just expressions.

Tyler's theme comes to a close as he stands there, dead center of the ring, continuing to hear the boos. There are a number of additional chants thrown his way as well. Chants for Dan Ryan, Conor Fuse and even some well orchestrated Tyler-Malak cahoots chants.

Needless to say, The OG Player's facial expression hasn't changed. He looks around, mic to his face. He takes a couple of steps forward, towards the hard camera. He opens his mouth.

Tyler Fuse:

I-

♪ "Daddy's Home" by JT Music -♪

Immediately after the introductory thunder to the legend's theme bellows throughout the PA system, Tyler's attention is diverted to the entrance and heavy tension builds within the bleachers.

Hell to pay.

But Tyler doesn't back down, he's shown zero emotion or concern since he appeared. His eyes watch the entranceway...

Dan Ryan slowly walks out.

He also shows no emotion, and he doesn't give even the slightest hint of a glance at anything other than Tyler Fuse standing in the ring.

Lance:

And a chill goes through the arena, or maybe it's just me.

Dan ignores the hands reaching out from the Faithful and finally reaches the apron. Keeping his eyes on Tyler, he grabs the ropes in front of him and leaps up onto the apron.

DDK:

Tyler Fuse is showing some real courage holding his ground in the ring right now...

Sure enough, Tyler is glued to his spot in the ring, a serious look on his face as he watches Dan Ryan climb through the ropes. Dan reaches down without turning his head, and a member of the ringside crew hands a microphone up to him. Dan takes it, letting it dangle at one side as he finally smirks just slightly, before bringing it up to his lips.

Dan Ryan:

You know what you did.

There's a hush over the crowd. Tyler doesn't respond.

Dan Ryan:

I almost did it, right? I almost became the first ever four-time FIST of DEFIANCE, after already BEING the only three-time FIST of DEFIANCE... but almost isn't quite enough is it? Thanks to you.

Now, a full-on smile from Dan Ryan... for a moment... and then, it's GONE.

Dan Ryan:

An interesting plan you've got there, Tyler. It's all well and good enough, the game you're playing with Malak. But it looks like in the process, you're starting another game with me. Doesn't seem particularly wise, but then again, I'm a reasonable man. Maybe you've got a good reason. Maybe you don't.

Dan slowly walks toward Tyler, who still holds his ground. Dan continues until he's inches from Tyler's face, so close that Dan has to hold the microphone slightly to the side so as not to bump Tyler with it.

Dan Ryan:

So here's your chance. Just what... THE FUCK... do you think you're doing?

Dan cocks his head to one side, and the crowd ripples with a mix of stunned silence, oohs and ahhs.

For a moment, it looks like Tyler Fuse is about to respond, when...

♪ "Big Dawgs" by Humankind -♪

The Pittsburgh Faithful get on their feet not to boo profusely as the FIST of DEFIANCE himself cockily saunters out on stage, dry humping the air as he does.

DDK:

Someone is confident.

Lance:

Unfortunately, that someone beat seven others in a chamber match...

DDK:

"Beat". Use that term loosely.

Percy Collins lags behind with the belt in tow. The champion is sporting a purple and blue tracksuit. Quite spiffy, if you saw anyone walking down the street in such a garb.

Malak Fuse:

Ceasefire on the tunes, production truck goons!

The heavy beats to the bass eventually subside.

Malak Fuse:

Whoa, whoa, whoa. What do we have here? A mangy squirrel and a pack rat nipping at each other's heels. I'll let you, the people, decide who is who but listen to this FACT CHECK. This is all great grandstanding about my FIST of DEFIANCE CHAMPIONSHIP. Yeah you heard me, I called it a CHAMPIONSHIP, but like, I hate to burst your bubbles but this right here ain't going anywhere anytime soon.

Malak walks over to Percy and taps on the centerplate of the massive title ASMR style.

Malak Fuse:

Dan, you say you want to become the first four time champ but like, bro, do you even know I am the FIRST AND ONLY REAL FIST OF DEFIANCE CHAMPION!? Tyler, you're cute. Even though I OWN YOU, you think you can come out here unaccompanied to do what? Pander to the crowd? Say something witty? Bro, you can't provide 'tainment with your mouth like I can. I AM THE KING OF 'TAINMENT!

Malak marches around like a child throwing a fit.

Malak Fuse:

In fact, I have some news for all the contenders vying for my title and not just you two inclusive. It isn't going to be defended anytime soon because I just overcame the trauma and dangers of the Rumination Chamber! I need to allow the appropriate amount of time and space for my energy chakras to catch up with my emotions because of that match. Hence why I am officially declaring myself on LOAD MANAGEMENT. Stash me on your fantasy lineup IR spots now!

DDK:

Load management? What does he think this is? The NBA?

Lance:

Ever since becoming Malak "Fuse", the champion has been playing a game on another level, Keebs.

Malak Fuse:

I'm not going to defend the title at DEFCON so both of you can keep your piss and vinegar to yourselves.

There are EXTREMELY loud boos now.

DDK:

He's not going to DEFCON!?!?

Malak Fuse:

That's right, I'm going to take the show off. It's about time, too, since I've beaten so many guys already. It's time the belt gets a break from being the focal point of DEFCON. Who knows, Percy and I might take a relaxing trip to Turks and Caicos or maybe we'll cancel it at the last minute and go on a Viking Norwegian Cruise!? WHO KNOWS! THE WORLD IS OUR OYSTER! I AM JUST LOAD MANAGING IN IT!

Malak spews his dribble before dropping the mic and pointing for Percy to proceed backstage. The segment comes to a halt as Tyler and Dan Ryan watch the spastic champion leave the inner arena from within the confines of the ring.

♪ "Big Dawgs" by Humankind ♪

Ryan and Fuse speak to each other off-mic, with things looking a little heated. Tyler eventually backtracks, knowing he needs to look after himself. Never taking his eyes off Ryan, the two mouth off to each other further as Tyler slips smoothly out of the ring, back-first through the bottom and middle rope. He walks up the rampway as Malak's theme continues to blare, Tyler and Ryan still battling it out with their comments.

DEFtv goes to commercial.

COMMERCIAL: DEFCON 2025

FIX IT OR FORGET IT

We transition to our two-man announce team, Keebler and Warner, who acknowledge the camera with practiced professionalism.

DDK:

What we just witnessed speaks for itself—the fallout from DEF Road’s Night 2 main event is sending shockwaves through DEFIANCE. But another story woven into that main event is the ongoing, long-going conflict between MP1 and his former Masked Violators partner, Corvo Alpha.

Lance:

Both men were part of that match. Both made their presence felt. But in the end, neither walked away with the FIST after that grueling 8-man Ruminations Chamber.

DDK:

And worse yet, nothing between them was settled. If anything, their animosity only intensified through that torturous battle!

Lance nods at Keebler before turning back to the camera.

Lance:

The tension rose between Alpha and MP1... and, you'll learn, between MP1 and Lord Nigel Tricklebush. What you're about to see is exclusive footage captured just moments after MP1's elimination at the hands of TA Black—footage from the instant he stepped backstage, only to be met by Lord Nigel himself. Take a look.

We cut to pre-recorded footage. The words “DEFIANCE ROAD 2025 - NIGHT 2 - Jan 30, 2025” appear in bright yellow in the bottom left corner.

The black curtain ripples violently from MP1's frustrated exit. Sweat-drenched and flushed, he frowns under his gray, black, and white mask. He yanks his right arm free from his singlet, pulling the strap down as he clutches his ribs.

Lord Nigel Tricklebush glides into frame. MP1 sees him and instantly turns his back, still catching his breath. Nigel doffs his battered fedora with a dramatic flourish, tucking it under his arm. Wringing his hands anxiously, he steps forward.

Lord Nigel Tricklebush:

You comported yourself with great temerity and indomitability.

The roar of the crowd echoes from the arena - the fans reacting to action ongoing in the chamber - causing MP1 to cast a bitter glance at the curtain before lowering his head.

Lord Nigel Tricklebush:

The odds were against you, my boy.

Nigel gestures toward the ring beyond the curtain with theatrical fire.

Lord Nigel Tricklebush:

No one else in that infernal structure took the punishment you did!

Turning that same pointed finger toward MP1 now, his tone softens.

Lord Nigel Tricklebush:

This weight is not yours to bear.

His gray, lifeless eyes flicker with feigned emotion as he presses his brown fedora to his chest.

Lord Nigel Trickelbush:

I put you in this match. This is my loss, not yours.

MP1 wheels around, lip curling into a half-snarl.

MP1:

You put me in a match with him. After weeks—months—of promising you'd fix everything.

The grim shade grips at his mask, pulling at it in frustration before erupting.

MP1:

How am I supposed to—how can I even function with him in there?! With this thing hanging over us?!

He doesn't give the old man a chance to respond.

MP1:

You said you'd fix this, Nigel.

Nigel glances at the floor, a flicker of anxiety in his eyes.

Lord Nigel Trickelbush:

I did. But your old friend is... not the easiest man to reach—

Now it's MP1 jabbing a finger into Nigel's bony chest.

MP1:

You told me you could do it.

Nigel nods, avoiding MP1's glare.

Lord Nigel Trickelbush:

Yes, well... perhaps you've forgotten the damage you did when you rejected his help at MAXDEF last summer.

MP1 bristles, turning his back as though restraining himself from a more violent reaction.

MP1:

"The damage I did."

Realizing his misstep, Nigel exhales, rolling his eyes at himself.

Lord Nigel Trickelbush:

We all have our roles in this—

MP1 whirls back around, yanking the remaining singlet strap off his shoulder with a frustrated grunt.

MP1:

Didn't you just say this wasn't my burden? That this was your loss? Not mine? Wasn't that you?

Nigel nods.

Lord Nigel Trickelbush:

I did.

MP1:

Yeah, Nigel. He's a hard man to "reach." But you should know that. You made him. Didn't you?

Nigel clenches his jaw, meeting MP1's eyes with his own defiance.

Lord Nigel Trickelbush:

I did.

MP1:

Then own it. Fix it. Or get the hell out of my way.

MP1 storms off, wincing as he instinctively clutches his ribs. But mid-step, he halts. Looking over his shoulder, his breathing heavy, he delivers a final warning.

MP1:

If you can't fix this, then our agreement is off. You hear me? If you can't deliver, you have no place with me. No place with the Gems. And no place in DEFIANCE.

As MP1 disappears down the corridor, Nigel remains frozen in place, the weight of MP1's words settling over him. The moment lingers.

Lord Nigel Trickelbush:

I see.

No one is there to hear him. Fade out.

THE WORK BEGINS

Cut to: Scott Douglas sitting on a steel chair in a dimly lit locker room. His hands wrapped tight and ready for action, a towel draped around his neck and his hair already wet and dripping ... because: wrestling.

The camera frame is tight on DEFIANCE's Favorite Son; no music, no spectacle... just Scott Douglas.

Scott Douglas:

Three years.

He shakes his head slightly, exhaling through his nose.

Scott Douglas:

Three years I had to sit with that loss... You don't move past it. You carry it—every day. Three years knowing I didn't belong anywhere else.

Scott leans forward, resting his elbows resting on his knees, clasping his hands together.

Scott Douglas:

Mikey Unlikely gave me something I didn't think I'd ever get—a second chance. A chance to come home. I came back. I fought side by side with the Bruvs. I fought my way back into this locker room. And I thought... maybe ... maybe I could fight my way back to the top, too.

Scott exhales slowly, nodding to himself. His voice remains steady, but the intensity in his tone sharpens.

Scott Douglas:

My misstep was thinking I could shortcut the process. I foolishly believed that beating Cyrus Bates would put me right back in line ... right back where I left off.

Scott takes a beat.

Scott Douglas:

But ... that was never meant to be and I should have known it. I know now that there are no shortcuts. No fast track. No golden ticket. If I want back everything I lost, I'm gonna have to claw for it. Scratch. Bleed. Fight... just like the first time.

Scott sits back, rolling his shoulders, letting the weight of the words settle in.

Scott Douglas:

One match at a time. One fight at a time.

Scott wipes the sweat from his brow with the towel.

Scott Douglas:

No promises. No expectations. Just the work.

Scott pushes up from the chair, adjusting his wrist tape. He takes one last look at the camera before walking off-screen. The shot lingers on the empty chair before cutting to elsewhere.

TITANES FAMILIA vs. GULF COAST CONNECTION

DDK:

Partner... did we receive any notice of a steel cage match tonight?

Lance:

I was curious about that myself. I tried to put out some feelers out to our interviewers and they're trying to make heads of tails of that. But we didn't have one scheduled that I'm aware of.

DDK:

Fair enough. Switching gears to tonight's first match... our opening match tonight was made as a result of what went down during the main event of UNCUT last week. After Dex Joy and Punch Drunk Purcell were both taken out by Uriel Cortez and Killjoy of Titanes Familia at DEFIANCE Road, it was one of Dex Joy's students in BRAZEN, "Young Bull" Tate Newell that demanded a match with Killjoy to stand up for them.

Stills from last week's match play as Darren and Lance run things down.

Lance:

Tate Newell gave it a valiant effort, but Killjoy walked away with the win. However, the aftermath was much worse. Just like what happened to Punch Drunk Purcell, Killjoy smashed the hand of Tate Newell into the steel steps. Doctors are saying he's been pulled from all BRAZEN shows for the foreseeable future.

DDK:

DEFSec and several wrestlers, including The Gulf Coast Connection came out to help Newell. We found out earlier this week the Connection wanted a match with any combination of Titanes Familia and they got it. They'll be taking on Titaness, Brooklynn Rivera and Killjoy.

Lance:

No easy task for anyone, but tonight we'll see if the GCC can put the partying aside for one night. Let's go to Darren Quimbey for the next match.

Introducing first... From Seattle, Washington! Weighing in at two-hundred and twenty-six pounds! He is DEFIANCE's Favorite Son! He is "SUB POP"... SCOTT... DOUGLAS!!!

The Faithful pop as the distorted whine of Green River's anthem bleeds through the PA speakers. When the beat kicks in, Scott Douglas marches through the curtain, eyes locked on the ring, his jaw tight. He rolls his shoulders, flexing his taped-up fists, and heads to the ring. The Faithful reach out, and Douglas tags hands as he moves, but his eyes stay fixed on the ring in front of him. Sliding under the bottom rope, Douglas pushes to a knee, hands planted against the mat, head bowed for a beat. He exhales, as he rises to his feet, shaking out his arms. He paces toward the ropes, gripping the top rope, pulling and stretching.

Darren Quimbey:

From Omaha, Nebraska... he is the Favored Saints Champion... T! A! COLE!

Each step is deliberate, as he marches down the ramp, his broad frame cutting an imposing figure beneath the tinted lights. At ringside, Cole hops onto the apron in one swift motion, but his expression never sells how impressive it is. He wipes his boots on the ring apron before stepping through the ropes.

DING DING

What a difference five or six years will make ... as the two former allies step toward the center of the ring. Scott Douglas, his fists clenched, nods once, acknowledging a man he has teamed with in the past. TA Cole, however, is expressionless, his hands resting on his knees as he bounces slightly in place, loosening up.

DDK:

This one has a bit of DEFIANCE history behind it!

Lance:

Indeed, Douglas and Cole have been in the trenches together before! Most recently Tag Party II but also as far back as DEFtv87!

DDK:

Well, the man Scott's looking at now ... That isn't the Levi Cole he used to know.

Lance:

Not at all, Darren. Since falling in line behind Ned Reform, Cole has turned his back on who he used to be. He's meaner, nastier, and under Reform's guidance, he's stopped worrying about what's right or wrong. One has to wonder, is he not looking to score some points with Reform here tonight, defeating Scott Douglas?

DDK:

There certainly has been some palpable tension in the ranks of the Honor Society - Cole is used to being Reform's right hand man, but as we saw at DEFIANCE Road, that is a spot that is quickly being filled by TA Black!

They lock up and right off the bat, Cole's size and strength advantage immediately become apparent as he muscled Douglas back into the corner. Benny Doyle calls for the break, and Cole raises his hands surprisingly quickly... only to shove Douglas' face with a disrespectful palm.

Douglas takes a deep breath and just nods in acknowledgment of how this is going to go.

DDK:

That right there tells you everything, Lance. Cole's not looking at Douglas like an old friend or partner, he's looking at him like a stepping stone to score some points with Reform!

They circle again, another tie-up but this time, Douglas ducks under, slipping behind into a waistlock. Cole tries to shake him off, but Douglas counters with a quick drop-toe hold, floating over into a front facelock.

Lance Warner:

I don't know if this is the right strategy for Douglas, he's giving up a lot of weight to Cole, and getting down on the mat with an NCAA wrestling champion, is never advisable!

Cole powers up to his feet, hoists Douglas into the air, and drives him backward into the corner, crushing him against the turnbuckles!

DDK:

That's 265 pounds of power right there! You can't coach that kind of strength, Lance!

Cole steps back and smirks. Douglas, still in the corner, shakes it off.

"Sub Pop" steps forward, circling Cole with a measured intent. The pair go in for another tie-up, again Douglas ducks under, slipping behind and grabbing a side headlock.

Cole instinctively goes to lift Douglas for a back suplex, but Douglas quickly transitions, using the momentum to flip over Cole's shoulder and land on his feet. Before Cole can react, Douglas spins the larger man around and lays in a forearm before nailing Cole in the knee with a sharp dropkick but Cole doesn't go down.

DDK:

It's going to take a little bit more than that, Lance.

Cole stumbles backward into the corner, shaking out his leg. Douglas doesn't let up, charging in and leaping with a high knee to the jaw. Douglas recoils off of Cole and takes a few steps back.

Maybe go find some former champions down on their luck or even some Hall of Famers and really make a name for yourself. Turn some heads and gather up some momentum and once your name reaches my ears, I'll put some thought into it. How's that sound, BeeBee?

Elise forces a plastic smile onto her face but beneath her lips, her multiple thousand dollar teeth are grinding together.

Dan Ryan:

Yeah, might as well save it, Conor. It's really not about you and me right now. It's a lot more about your "brothers". This is personal for Tyler, I get it. I want him to get his revenge, too. But it can't be at my expense. I'm only gonna tolerate that for so long. And as for your other "brother", I know his type. I see what he's up to, and I'm gonna let him think he's in control for a little while. He can say what he wants, play his games, do whatever he wants. Eventually the walls are gonna be closing in. It's only a matter of time. I know it and you know it.

Dan just holds a look at Conor, but doesn't say anything more, then looks down.

Conor nods to himself, understanding, and exits the locker room, breathing a sigh of relief. He leaves, shutting the door behind him. However, standing right there in front of him is his brother.

Well, "brother".

Malak Fuse.

Conor immediately rolls his eyes and leans against the now-closed locker room door.

Conor Fuse:

Yes?

Malak just stares at Conor. Awkwardly.

Conor Fuse:

Hello?

Malak moves in a little closer. In pops Percy Collins into view, holding and caressing the FIST. Malak nearly gets nose-to-nose with his "little brother".

Malak Fuse:

Look at me.

Conor is already looking at Malak. The unpredictable tender snowflake never breaks eye contact yet he manages to move toward Percy and his belt. He too begins rubbing it like a genie lamp.

Malak Fuse:

This is mine. I retained this from the Ruminaton Chamber match.

Never breaking eye contact.

Conor Fuse:

Okay?

Malak Fuse:

Now I'm going to load manage so hard. I am going to make Kawhi Leonard look like a workhorse.

Again, never breaking eye contact.

Malak Fuse:

No more challengers. Just empty space and time for my reign to grow. Will you love this for me?

Malak rests his chin on Percy's open shoulder, still not averting his gaze at Conor. Meanwhile, Conor closes his eyes for a brief moment and signs the stress out. Then he opens his eyes again and stares at Percy Collins.

Conor Fuse:

Get lost, give me a moment alone with my...

Heavy eye roll.

Conor Fuse:

"Brother".

Malak gives the nod to Percy that it's okay for him to leave, so he does. The two are right in each other's faces, as Conor waits for Malak to roll on.

Malak Fuse:

Is this the feeling you get when you 'catch 'em all'? When you one hundred percent a game? Because to be quite honest, I feel rather fulfilled. I own you. I own Tyler. I own DEFIANCE. I am DEFIANCE. I am the standard in this industry today. Me. Wow, okay. Lots to unpack here. I am the best, aren't I, Conor?

Conor tilts his head and raises his eyebrows.

Conor Fuse:

Congratulations on surviving the chamber, bud. Yeah, you're on a hell of a run, I'll give you that. No matter how you're doing it, you are. But the best? One-hundred percent a game?

Conor shrugs.

Conor Fuse:

You gonna pass Eugene Dewey for longest reign? You're not even halfway there, guy. You wanna touch Mikey Unlikely's four-ninety-nine? Godspeed.

Malak "pfts" before speaking.

Malak Fuse:

On load management, I can do anything, guy. I could easily be a pro gamer if I wanted. You know what? I might do that with my load management time off. Call of Duty instead of training? Hmmmm, interesting. Delectable, even. I am literally the Lord over all space, time and universes. Top of the mountain. Master of the hill. No one will ever knock me off this pedestal now that I have MY RIGHT to load manage.

It's clear Conor doesn't want to invest in this conversation any further, since he was trapped into it anyway.

Conor Fuse:

Malak, buddy, that's great. You do you. Go ahead and not wrestle anymore, see how that works for you. You've already got half this roster breathing down your neck, including the guy sitting behind the door to my back. So you wanna intensify it? Wait to defend your belt for as long as humanly possible. Go. Go be a gamer. Go beat my high scores or whatever. I'm not as one dimensional as many of you think. I'm a wrestler before a gamer. A good wrestler, too.

Malak laughs at the thought.

Conor Fuse:

It's okay, laugh it off.

Conor can hear the !RANK chants build from within the arena.

Conor Fuse:

I don't need to speak for him, but Tyler deserves another chance at the FIST. Dan DEFINITELY does. Pat. Brock. A bunch of others, too. I guess I define load management as... management. You're gonna have to wrestle eventually...

Conor tussles Malak's hair, just like old times before walking off.

Conor Fuse:

Better be ready for the next opponent. Or opponents. Won't be the FIST forever.

Malak doesn't want to look shook, he was riding so high for the past few weeks. He doesn't want to look shook. Totally. Can't. Won't.

He puts on a brave face, but there might be minor dents in the armour. Either way, he's trying his best not to show it.

Malak Fuse:

I WILL SO BE FIST FOREVER! NEVER COMING OFF LOAD MANAGEMENT! COLLECTING A PAYMENT LIFESTYLE IS WHAT SUITS ME!!!

BUTCHER VICTORIOUS vs. ARCHER SILVER

DDK:

Coming up next in singles action, we've got Butcher Victorious about to take on Archer Silver of the BRAZEN Future Talent Agency! Butcher was victorious over Titaness in the first-ever Stick on a Pole match, not only retrieving his prized custom microphone aka The Stick, but we also saw the debut of The AMP!

Lance:

He's The Microphone and The Megaphone Fiend. He's got one of DEFIANCE's biggest sponsorship deals with Mic Dropz Energy. Butcher's been on cloud nine, but it only takes three seconds to be knocked off that cloud, which is what the self-righteous Archer Silver is hoping to do.

Kerry Kuroyama and Mil Vuelas had what fans called one of the best singles matches of the entire two-night event. Though Mil lost that match, he does continue to show his outrageous bravado. No doubt he has a plan tonight to bring the gold back to GC Universe.

Lance:

In the span of a few months, he went from being one of the most talented underdogs in DEFIANCE to one of the most obnoxious.

El Escuadron makei to the ring. In his fur coat, Mil leaps to the top rope, then lands on his feet in the ring. He leaps to the middle rope and poses with his head to the sky while on the ring apron just beneath him, Bonita en Rosa I and Bonita en Rosa II both pose with DLJ standing behind them, flexing his jawline. Mil stands with his arms out, allowing the Bonitas to remove his fur coat before his music cuts and makes way for that of his opponent...

The spotlight lands on the ramp as the D saunters out from the backstage area. He smiles to the Faithful through his LED Elise themed sunglasses. He wears what looks to be the finest of armani suits, until with a quick jerk he rips and tears away the breakaway suit. He tosses it to the side and begins to saunter down ringside, the Favoured Saints championship wrapped cozily around his waist! Behind him, none other than Klein has his back!

DDK:

This issue has gone back months between these two and tonight, both men want to settle this!

Lance:

The D up to his usual antics, but he's got his game face on tonight!

The D reaches ringside and kind of dances up onto the hardest part of the ring. He does a quick moonwalk to the other turnbuckle and climbs it. He unstraps and raises the Favoured Saints Championship up high to a nice ovation from the Pittsburgh Faithful! He stands directly across from the challenger now as his music cuts and the super-serial championship intros begin!

Darren Quimbey:

The following singles contest is your main event of the evening! It is set for one fall and is for the Favoured Saints Championship!

The FS Title graphic flashes to life on-screen as the Pittsburgh Faithful roar with approval!

Darren Quimbey:

Introducing first, the challenger. Representing the GC Universe and El Escuadron... accompanied to the ring by "Giga" Dan Leo James and Bonita en Rosa I y II... residing in Rancho Santa Margarita, California, by way of Tijuana, Mexico... weighing in at 179 pounds... he is El Intocable! He is the OSCAR BURNS of LUCHA LIBRE! He is THE GLOAT... MIL VUELTAS!

Mil does a front flip forward to show off because flippy guy reasons, then points directly at The D, then the title.

Darren Quimbey:

And his opponent. He is the reigning and defending TWO-TIME Favoured Saints Champion! Representing the Pop Culture Phenoms! Accompanied to the ring by Klein! From Culver City, California, weighing in at 185 pounds! He is The Director of DEFIANCE! He is The Netflix A-Lister! He is The Man with The D... but you can call him... THE D!

The D holds the title up, slaps the front plate and practically puts the title in Mil's face. Mil brushes it off but before the two can come to blows, Rex Knox gets in between the two to cool tempers down. He takes the title from The D and holds the title up. Mil gets into The D's face and piefaces him disrespectfully, forcing The D to dropkick Mil right off his feet! Rex Knox almost drops the title and hurriedly calls for the bell as a rabid Faithful get ready!

Oh, no! We're starting this one off fast! Mil got in The D's face and now he's gonna make him pay for it!

Mil scrambles to his feet, only for a second dropkick from The D to catch him in the chest, sending him outside the ring!

Lance:

PCP and the GC Universe have been at war for months now! Elise finally conquered her white whale in OSCAR BURNS. Can The D finally put these issues behind him tonight?!

Mil Vueltas is scrambling outside the ring, but The D is all over him like white on rice and a glass of milk on a paper plate in a snowstorm. He snatches Mil by the back of his gussied-up mask and slams The GLOAT face first into the ring apron! The Director of DEFIANCE spins him around and then introduces his face casually into the barricade! Mil stumbles around spaghetti-legged until The D finally spins around and this time, Vueltas gets to meet the steel steps face first! Mil falls to the mat outside the ring while The D poses on the steel steps, then reaches over to high-five Klein!

Lance:

The D is done playing around! After Mil lied to his face and said he forgave him for beating him for the Favoured Saints title months ago! It's come down to this!

DDK:

The D goes back into the ring! He's measuring up Mil Vueltas!

He speeds across the ring and clocks El Intocable upside his masked head with a quick baseball slide dropkick! The D hangs onto the ropes and then picks himself up just as Mil slumps over in a dazed stupor. The Netflix A-Lister steadies himself. He leaps to the top rope and then takes FLIGHT with an amazing somersault senton to the outside and taking out The GLOAT in the process!

DDK:

This one's off to a hot start like we thought it would be! The D is an ultra-savvy technician on that mat, but right now he's pulling out all the steps to keep the Favoured Saints Title in the camp of the Pop Culture Phenoms!

LET'S GO, D!

LET'S GO, D!

LET'S GO, D!

LET'S GO, D!

After taking a few moments to collect himself after the super-risky dive to the outside, The D is back on his feet and then rolls Mil back into the ring before going in with him. The D hits the ring and then comes off the ropes with a fast Crescent Kick!

DDK:

With Everything! An aptly-named move for that kick because he just hit Mil with everything he could muster.

The D then stands over the laid out Mil in the center of the ring. He looks out to the arena before crossing his arms together, then runs the ropes! He comes back to deliver a double foot stomp across the chest of Mil! He runs into the ropes, then moonwalks backwards to hit a standing moonsault!

Look at Mil Vueltas run! He can certainly do that. He may be among the fastest on the roster, but he'll have to beat The D inside that ring if he wants to hold the Favoured Saints Championship!

DDK:

All true! A win tonight would make Mil Vueltas a two-time champion. He held it a few years ago back when he was a good soul under his old ring name of Minute!

The D flies off the ropes and looks for another dive, but Bonita en Rosa II jumps on the apron forcing The D to stop! He angrily brushes her out of the way, but suddenly, Mil finds a second wind as he's distracted! The GLOAT front-flips to his feet again and has his gaze locked in on The D as he tries to get himself upright. Klein tries to warn him what's coming his way... BUT IT'S TOO LATE!

DDK:

Super Rapido! Mil Vueltas FLEW right through the middle and bottom rope!

Lance:

Mil slides quickly back into the ring. The Favoured Saints Champion doesn't know what hit him the first time when Mil flies OVER the ropes the second time, almost in mid-Superman pose with a tope con hilo dive to the outside!

DDK:

Called it, Lance! Mil moves so fast in that ring, he just flies so fast, he can afford to hit multiple dives! It's frustrating for his opponents how easy he makes this!

After taking a moment to pick himself back up, the former two-time Unified Tag Champ and Favoured Saints Champ stands over the current champ and talks some trash.

Mil Vueltas:

Don't steal my dives, cabron! Eso es lo mío!

And then it's Mil's turn to push him back inside the ring. The GLOAT arrogantly slides across the apron with a leap, then positions himself by grabbing the top rope. He leaps and just as The D tries to rise, he gets SMACKED down courtesy of a springboard European uppercut!

Mil hooks The D by the waist as he tries for a german suplex of all things. The powerful Mil gets The D up, but The Director of DEFIANCE throws a pair of back elbows to free himself! The D turns around and SMACKS him with a huge chop! Vueltas winces in pain from the first chop, so The D throws the second! He hits a third!

DDK:

The Favoured Saints Champion averts potential disaster! Mil has improved his physique majorly, but I don't know if a suplex was his best choice of offense!

With Mil stunned, he goes for the ropes, but on the comeback, Mil actually CATCHES The D over the shoulder instead and plants him with a cartwheel death valley driver!

Rex Knox warns Mil to let go and he finally does just before the count of five! The GLOAT does not maintain his composure and starts trying to attack the arm of The D again with some raining shots. Mil looks up at the top rope and then a grin crosses his face.

DDK:

I think I know what's coming next! The GLOAT is looking for that moonsault double stomp! If he hits GLOATED, we've got a brand new champion!

With the quickness, Mil heads to the corner. He leaps to the second rope, then the top before going for the moonsault....

Lance:

No! The D saw it coming! But Mil rolls through!

Pretty effortlessly, Mil rolls through the impact and lands on his feet, but when he stands up to greet The D, The D greets him first with a STIFF thrust kick to the face! The blow echoes like a shot throughout the Petersen Events Center and Mil stiffly falls back to the canvas! The D falls to the canvas and tries to get some feeling back into his left arm.

He sends Mil into the corner but follows right behind to close the distance before hitting D In Your Face! The first stinger splash connects, but The D isn't done! Feeding off The Faithful's energy, he runs cross-corner and then comes back with a second D In Your Face! He grabs Mil by the neck and throws him out of the corner before pointing to the top rope!
