As Rick Dickulous focused on Chris Richards, he motioned for Chris Richards to pay attention, lifting Massive Cowboy to his feet and into a reverse DDT that resonated through the building.

Chris Richards' eyes slowly looked from Rick Dickulous down to his axe leaning against the ring stairs, then back to Rick Dickulous with a mischievous grin.

PANTALOONEY TUNES

When we last left Muriel Puddings, we were extremely disgusted. Which is not an uncommon reaction. However, she seemed to be doing quite well: destroying supernatural beings that morphed into a giant judge in a wrestling ring. Humping pillows with Conor Fuse's face on them. Eating fish sandwiches from McDonalds. Normal things that people do to pass the time in jail.

However, our present setting feels a bit more toned down. While her behavior behind bars had been anything but commendable, Muriel had used some of the influx of cash from a GoFundMe that had been set up to bribe the officers into allowing for visitation. Despite being clad in her Cook County Jail uniform, she was dolled up to the nines for her special guests. Her blond hair had a little more perkiness and bounce than usual, and her face was slathered in makeup -- bearing a striking resemblance to a younger Tammy Faye Bakker.

Sitting at a concrete picnic table, we find her, Lindsay Troy, and High Octane Wrestling's Zeb Martin engaging in a very civilized reunion of friends. Just kidding, Muriel is sitting right on Martin's lap and attempting to give him a hickey on his neck. For those unfamiliar, Zeb is quite the shy young Southern boy: too polite to protest yet visibly uncomfortable (despite rumors of an airplane bathroom rendezvous between the two.)

The Queen of the Ring does absolutely nothing to stop her, however: enjoying Zeb's awkwardness and Puddings' persistence despite it being a little gross. However, self-awareness eventually catches up with Muriel and she climbs off of the Watson Mill Kid in order to catch up with her two friends. Giving us all a reprieve, honestly.

Muriel Puddings:

Catch your breath, stud. I pulled a few strings and scored me and you a little conjugal time back there. Hope you brought protection for that country hambone of yours. Just kidding, hope you didn't. Put a little Zeb in me.

She nudges Martin gently in the rib and motions toward a white trailer behind them. Lindsay laughs out loud as beads of sweat begin to form on Zeb's forehead.

Muriel Puddings:

So what's up, baes? What's the tea this week? Did my little gamer snack Conor beat Mikey for the FIST? Did you beat Jay Harvey, Lindz? You make that pretty boy Teddy Palmer tap, good lookin'?

Lindsay Troy:

No, no, and no. We all took a few lumps, sadly.

Zeb Martin:

Yep. You bein' in here might be bad luck fer us.

Puddings frowns and comically slaps her forehead.

Muriel Puddings:

I can't TAKE IT ANYMORE! AUGH! I can't live with the fact that my baes and beaus are fricken LOSING because I can't be there to support 'em. But all that's gonna end soon. Know why?

Muriel beckons for the two to come in close to the center as she whispers.

Muriel Puddings:

I'm gonna bust out of here. Me and some of the gals have already been working on a plan. You see Tamara over there? Well, we're gonna rub each others' butts in front of a night guard and tell him we need a 'little help' in the janitor's closet. We'll lure him in there, sit on him, steal his gun...

Immediately both Zeb and Lindsay start shaking their heads. This of course doesn't deter Muriel from going over the other details of the plan.

Muriel Puddings:

...SHOOT him, and then we're both gonna make a bolt for the front entrance. And if anyone gets in our way, BANG! Freakin' dead. Don't mess with Idaho Falls, (beep).

Lindsay Troy and Zeb Martin:

NO!

Muriel Puddings:

Oh, come on. It's a foolproof plan!

Zeb Martin:

Naw it ain't. Listen, you don't need tuh be even thankin' 'bout doin' somethin' crazy like that, so jus' get that out yer dadgum head right now.

Muriel grins at Zeb, snuggling up against him.

Muriel Puddings:

Awwwwwww. You don't want to see me get hurt, huh? You LOVE me and you CARE about me, don't you?

Zeb Martin:

Yeah, I do, Mu'reil!

Puddings stops her teasing abruptly at this line as she's just a little caught off guard by the sincerity.

Muriel Puddings:

Right now. Let's go. That big ol' button down in my pantaloons is knocking so loud I'm about to answer the (beep) thing.

She then makes a move to grab hold of his arm and attempt to drag him toward the sex trailer, but he calmly pulls her back down to a seated position. We aren't sure if it's because he genuinely wants her to listen to what they have to say, or if it's due to the fact that he is terrified of the prospect of her "pantaloons."

Lindsay Troy:

Cool your jets, Maverick. Neither of us want to see you get hurt. Or wind up in solitary. And you won't have to....I think we've found something that's going to help you with your case.

Muriel raises a brow, anticipating the next comment. She folds her arms in defiance (wrestling).

Muriel Puddings:

If you're going to suggest a lawyer that you know, I've told you both: the answer is NAHHHHHHHHHHHHHH. I have a substantial legal background and am more than capable of representing myself in bort.

Lindsay Troy:

Bort? Don't you mean court?

Muriel Puddings:

I said what I said.

Zeb Martin:

Zeb places a caring hand on her shoulder, trying to use a little mind game to get her to consider it.

Zeb Martin:

Ya runned over two people on a steamroller this time. Maybe ya should get help on this un.

Muriel Puddings:

Not doing it. Not no way, not no how. End of discus...

Lindsay interjects immediately, putting her hand up and shooting a couple of daggers at Martin with her eyes.

Lindsay Troy:

We weren't going to suggest that. But both of us did a little research, and we dug up some interesting things that you probably want to know about...

Lindsay reaches for a folder next to her on the bench and spreads it out on the table for Muriel to see. Her eyes widen as she grabs the first sheet in the pile of papers: a glossy 8 1/2" x 11" of Zeb and DEF favorite Pat Cassidy both in their skimpiest of underwear and nothing else. They are engaged in the "looking back and checking you out" pose. Or, something like that. Both were obviously a little uncomfortable yet compliant in the photographer's request, especially since they were asked to slightly graze each other's rear ends with their hand for added sexual effect.

Muriel Puddings:

Hummina-hummina!

Zeb lays his head down on the table in sheer embarrassment while Troy just grins from ear to ear, observing Muriel with her tongue hanging out like a salivating dog.

Lindsay Troy:

That doesn't have anything to do with your case. Just a little gift from us.

Muriel Puddings:

Any way you can have this blown up to poster size? That way I can cover the hole that I plan on digging through the wall in case the seduction plan doesn't work. And that I can also have something life-sized to pleasure another hole in the cell.

Lindsay Troy:

Calm down, Horny Andy Dufresne. Turn to the next page. Does that steamroller look familiar to you?

Muriel Puddings:

Yeah. But in the interest of client confidentiality, I was pretty drunk off Franzia.

Zeb Martin:

Keyes yanks Stalker into his grip, lifts him up with a direct twirl and sends him CRASHING into Keyes knee with a VICIOUS looking TILT A WHIRL BACKBREAKER!!

DDK:

Keyes just DESTROYED Stalker with that backbreaker! And looks like Lindsay has something to say as she grabs his microphone.

Lindsay Troy:

Enough of these costumes, misdirection, and nonsensical ramblings of a madman destined for recommitment. We're ending this at DEFIANCE ROAD, Reeves. You should've let the past stay where it belongs, not dredge it back up to help feed your delusions and jealousy. The three of us...

She motions to herself, a fired-up Henry Keyes, and the stoic Deacon.

Lindsay Troy:

...are going to show you what happens when you call for a war that you're not prepared to win.

Troy drops the microphone next to Stalker's prone body and extends her hand to Keyes, who clasps her arm in a Roman-style handshake. The two heroes look up the ramp to Deacon, standing over the fallen bodies of Rezin and Vacio, who respectively took two power moves on the ramp to knock them out.

Camera fades into an overhead shot of the Heroes Triumphant over the Villains.

A burst of white static hits the screen before we fade to black and the DEFIANCE logo appears at the bottom.
