DDK:

We had FOUR incredible first-round matches in our ACTS Tournament last night to see who will earn a FIST of DEFIANCE Title match at our next big event, ACTS of DEFIANCE! Those matches were amazing, but tonight's matches are here to tell Night One to hold their beer!

Lance:

That's right! Last night! Four people advanced to Round Two and they'll no doubt be checking out tonight's matches to see who they may be competing against in a future bracket! Let's get to the rundown of tonight's final four ACTS Tournament Round One matches!

ACTS Tournament, Round One: Henry Keyes vs. Ned ReformDDK:

Our NEW Southern Heritage Champion, Henry Keyes of Vae Victis takes on "The Good Doctor" Ned Reform! Ned Reform has TA Cole in his corner and this could be a signature victory if he can find a way to get past Keyes.

Lance:

It'll take everything and more. Keyes hasn't taken a loss since joining Vae Victis. He won the Favoured Saints Championship, ran through a Who's Who of four successful defenses and then ran through Scrow to win the Southern Heritage Championship. Reform will need every trick in the book if he wants to get past Henry Keyes, who's arguably the best we've ever seen him.

ACTS Tournament, Round One: Brock Newbludd vs. Elise AresDDK:

Elise Ares enters as a possible dark horse, in my opinion. One of the longest-reigning Tag Team Champions in history, still holds the record for longest-reigning Southern Heritage Title reign in history today. She takes on Brock Newbludd, the most recent Unified Tag Team Champion with Pat Cassidy, now holding the record as longest-reigning tag champs up until recently... but last we saw on UNCUT... we don't currently know his status.

Lance:

Elise was on the winning end at MAXDEF while like you said, SNS came up short against The Lucky Sevens... ugh... who are now employed again as our champions. I can't call this one, but I'm hoping we will see Brock appear. This is too good an opportunity for any wrestler to pass up.

ACTS Tournament, Round One: Conor Fuse vs. Corvo AlphaDDK:

Conor Fuse, former two-time Tag Team Champion, takes on Lord Nigel's monster, Corvo Alpha! The former Favoured Saints Champion was victorious in a bitter battle over ex-tag team partner, Masked Violator #1! Conor is coming off calling the FIST title match between current champion Deacon and the man who owns his contract, Malak Garland, right down the middle.

Lance:

With Malak still owning Conor, you have to think he's going to use Conor to get as far as he possibly can in this thing. Malak has his own match that we'll get to, but Corvo Alpha has been on the warpath. I can see either man taking this, but I have to go with Corvo.

ACTS Tournament, Round One: Arthur Pleasant vs. Oscar Burns

DDK:

And in our main event, another first-time match between the current Favoured Saints Champion Arthur Pleasant, taking on the former two-time FIST of DEFIANCE and the final WrestleUTA World Champion, Oscar Burns. A man many tout as one of the favorites to win this tournament.

Lance:

Call me crazy, but Oscar Burns can't be in his right mindset after that tough loss to Dex Joy. Meanwhile, Arthur Pleasant is on top of the world at the moment. Arthur has seemed to get away from his former hardcore deathmatch style in favor of showing actual wrestling prowess, but he's going up against arguably THE best pure mat wrestler we have. Oscar on paper should win, but... I don't know. Too close to call!

DDK:

Our last four Round One matches of the ACTS Tournament are all sure to wow the DEFIANCE Faithful and we'll see this action and plenty more tonight!

FIST TOURNAMENT, ROUND 1: HENRY KEYES (SOHER) vs. NED REFORM

♪ "Für Elise" by Cole Rolland ♪

A collective groan comes from the Phoenix Faithful as Ned Reform's theme, a rock remix of Beethoven's classic, begins to play throughout the arena. Reform himself walks out from the back... but instead of wearing his usual ring attire... Ned is dressed in a... toga!?

DDK:

What in the world?

Reform, looking like a member of the Roman senate, saunders proudly onto the stage. Behind him, dressed as a gladiator with a toga of his own, is TA Cole. He holds up a golden spear and shield as he sneers at the crowd. Reform completely no-sells the ridiculous nature of his appearance, instead swaggering onto the ramp like it's any other day.

Darren Quimbey:

Our opening contest is scheduled for ONE FALL and is a first round match in the ACTS of DEFIANCE tournament! Introducing first, from Litchfield, Connecticut, weighing in at 227 pounds... NED REFORM!

Paused at the top of the ramp, Reform reaches into his toga and produces a mic.

Ned Reform:

That's... DOCTOR Ned Reform, you neanderthal. Now... SILENCE!

Reform pauses until the music tech gets the hint and his theme fades out. Reform begins to walk slowly toward the ring (with TA Cole in tow) as he speaks.

Ned Reform:

Children... welcome to DEFtv. My opponent tonight is... Henry Keyes.

Pause for crowd reaction.

Ned Reform:

Ned Reform:

Vae Victis.

Pause for another crowd reaction.

Ned Reform:

Yes. While I'm sure the majority of you in attendance tonight believe that to be a catchy phrase to stick on cheaply made t-shirts... this goes much deeper than that, children. You see, vae victis is Latin.

Reform begins to speak slowly. His cadence is one someone would adopt if they were reading to a child.

Ned Reform:

Latin, children, is a language that was spoken a very, very long time ago. Longer than your tenure in the fourth grade, even. And “vae victis” is the Latin phrase for “woe to the vanquished” or “woe to the conquered.” In other words, it means that the weak deserve no consideration. What a group of role models, yes? Now, to be fair, I’m fairly sure that they do not understand the meaning of the phrase. I’m very sure Ms. Troy and her ilk simply googled a phrase that made them sound intimidating. And I’m completely sure that their co-opting that phrase is a GRAVE INJUSTICE!

Reform, halfway down the ramp, pauses for a moment to collect himself. Then he continues to walk and speak.

Ned Reform:

Latin was the language of the Roman Empire. The Romans, for those unaware, were beacons of light and civilization in an otherwise dark and barbaric world. The Romans were philosophers. The Romans were military geniuses. The Romans were masters of rhetoric. The Romans were clean, orderly, and intelligent. This group of brutes that calls themselves “Vae Victis” in DEFIANCE today are a disgrace to all of those ideals!

Reform walks up the steps and enters the ring. He motions to his toga.

Ned Reform:

And so I am here to counter this farce by offering myself as a true representative of the Roman ideals. Whereas Vae Victis continue to brutalize members of the DEFIANCE roster like the lawless thugs that they are, Dr. Ned Reform continues to fight the good fight to civilize DEFIANCE. Now, much like the Romans, that sometimes involves the use of force... but rest assured that in the end, the fools wandering in the dark will thank me. In a moment, Mr. Henry will march to this ring and like the heathens of old, attempt to extinguish the fires of the civilized and educated world. But I will stand fast to my ideals, children, and I will conquer. And when this tournament has concluded, you will be looking at the next FIST of DEFIANCE... and a more civilized DEFIANCE.

BOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO!

With a grin, Reform rips off his toga... to reveal his ring gear underneath. Only TA Cole applauds.

Ned Reform:

Sonny Silver emerges first. Lindsay Troy, self-assured as ever, and Kerry Kuroyama, with a hard look in his eye, are right behind him.

Sonny Silver:

Woe, once again, to YOU, Ned Reform. What a TERRIBLE draw you’ve pulled!

As the dread beats and somber strums continue, the trio centers themselves on the ramp.

Behold your fucking doom, you magnificent dweeb. Weighing in at TWO HUNDRED FORTY-NINE POUNDS, he is the UNDEFEATABLE SOUTHERN HERITAGE CHAMPION...THE GOD, DAMB, KRAKEN...HENRY!
KEEEEEEEYES!

Keyes emerges through the curtain with the Southern Heritage Championship slung over his shoulder. Without even a pause or a beat of hesitation, he shoves it in Sonny's torso and power-struts/half-sprints into the ring, only for Reform to slip outside again. On the outside, Reform confers with the still gladiator-clad TA Cole as Keyes eyes him with intensity. Brian Slater yells at Reform to get into the ring, but he receives a "one second" finger from The Good Doctor. Slater begins to grow impatient, but Keyes is all business.

DDK:

Listen, Ned Reform is the king of bravado... but underneath it all, he is not a stupid man. He knows full well how dangerous Keyes has been since joining Vae Victis, and you have to believe this stalling is an attempt to frustrate The Kraken and throw him off his game.

Slater is leaning over the ropes now, telling Reform that his time is up. With a look of pure contempt, Reform slowly... slowly... slowly walks up the steel steps onto the apron. He pauses, looking Keyes dead in the good eye. If he really is attempting to throw the Southern Heritage Champion off his game, he appears to be failing miserably, as Keyes betrays no emotion in his glance. Finally, Reform steps through the bottom rope, and finally Slater is able to call for the bell.

DING DINGBOOOOOOOOOOOOO!

And the instant the bell rings, Reform ducks back out and to the floor! The Sage on the Stage goes back to his Teaching Assistant, appearing to very deeply and very seriously talk strategy as the fans give him hell. Slater is clearly annoyed by this, and after trying one more time to scold Reform, he goes to the ten count.

ONE! TWO! THREE! FOUR! FIVE!

If Ned hears the count, he doesn't sell it. He continues to gesture and move his hands as if he's scheming while TA Cole nods in agreement.

Ned is on the apron, but before he steps into the ring he demands that Keyes back up. Only problem is - Keyes isn't anywhere near him. Slater looks puzzled as Reform points and yells "get him back!" even though the Kraken is across the ring.

DDK:

This is a tournament for a shot at the FIST of DEFIANCE and Reform is trying to turn it into a joke.

Lance:

Say this for him, Keebs: it appears he may be finally getting under Keyes' skin a bit.

Henry Keyes, previously cold and stoic, is now impatiently shifting his weight and scowling. Reform's "get him back!" routine goes on for a full minute until he finally puts a foot through the middle rope... and then immediately draws it back. He does this again. A third time. Finally, Keyes has reached his breaking point so he lunges for Reform... causing The Good Doctor to drop off the apron and to the ring to a HUGE round of boos.

Ned Reform:

I will not enter that ring until he can demonstrate sportsmanship!

Slater shakes his head in frustration even as he moves to tell Keyes to step back. Ned begins to walk around the ring, ranting and raving to anyone who will listen. A fan reaches out to touch Reform's shoulder and he recoils back, disgusted. The fan responds with a middle finger as Reform shakes his head in disappointment. Finally, Slater leans over the top rope.

Brian Slater:

If you don't step into this ring and start this match, I'm awarding the contest to Henry Keyes!

Reform's eyes go wide.

Ned Reform:

You are a charlatan and a fraud!!

Even so, Reform obliges, rolling under the bottom rope. Now, finally, both men are in the ring. Keyes, eyes narrowed in frustration, moves in to engage Reform... when out of nowhere, The Good Doctor "tweaks" his knee. He falls into a sitting position, holding his knee pad and howling in pain.

Lance:

Nope! Brilliant move by Ares - she forced Cassidy to break the headlock lest he have his shoulders pinned.

Cassidy rushes to his feet while Ares, choosing the more spectacular method, kips up. Cassidy hits the ropes and comes at her with a clothesline, but she ducks. When Cassidy comes back on the rebound, she goes for a dropkick... but gets nothing but air when Pat holds onto the ropes and halts his momentum. Ares hits the mat, and Cassidy is on her in a flash, grabbing her legs and leaping forward into a pinning predicament of his own!

ONE!

TWO!

No!

Again, both wrestlers are back to their feet, and this time it's Elise who hits the ropes and comes at Cassidy - but it doesn't go her way as she runs right into a stiff back elbow to the mush. Cassidy covers!

ONE!

Kickout!

DDK:

Don't forget that Pat Cassidy already wrestled Elise's partner The D on night one, and he's looking to not waste any time putting this one to bed as well.

Elise tries to get up, but once she's in a seated position, Cassidy locks on a sleeper. It looks like The Saturday Night Special has Ares in a bad way until she lifts her elbow high into the air and then drives backwards into Cassidy's shoulder! Pat cries out and breaks the hold, and Elise drops him with a sit-out jawbreaker.

Lance:

Ares targeting the same shoulder that The D worked over last night.

The Leading Lady of DEFIANCE hits the ropes and explodes with a shotgun dropkick right into the rising Cassidy's shoulder! Pat cries out in pain and Ophelia Sykes hands go to her mouth in concern for how brutal that looked. Ares with the lateral press.

ONE!

TWO!

THRE - NO! Pat just gets the shoulder up!

Elise takes control of Pat by the arm, bringing him to his feet. Holding his arm over her head, she does a brief rhythmic dance (causing Ophelia to fume and The D to pump his fist) before running, holding Cassidy's arm, up the turnbuckle! She leaps off and hits the mat, doing a roll - all while maintaining her hold on the arm. The torque that this puts on Pat Cassidy's shoulder is intense, as he again hits the mat in pain. Cassidy tries to sit up, but he eats a stiff kick right to the face! Ares with the cover!

ONE!

TWO!

THRE- NO!

DDK:

The will to win in both these competitors is so strong... this tournament is for all the marbles!

Lance:

And don't forget, Pat has already advanced into Round 2! He's fighting for Brock Newbludd's spot here!

Elise takes a moment to dance for the pumped crowd as Pat tries to get up in a daze. Just as he regains his vertical base, Ares hits the ropes, coming at Pat with some sort of aerial move... but we'll never know what it was meant to be, as he catches her in mid-air and drives her head into the canvas with an Alabama Slam! He holds his shoulder in pain, but the damage to Elise is done. Instead of covering, Cassidy uses the ropes for support, trying to shake feeling back into his shoulder. Ophelia slaps the mat and yells at The Scrapper from Southie to finish Ares off.

DDK:

And now it's Cassidy's turn to stalk Elise as she gets back to her feet... boot to her gut, her arm is hooked, up and over... he drills her with a pumphandle slam! Cover!

ONE!

TWO!

NO!

Ares, using all her strength, powers out of the pin. Climbing toward a corner, she uses the turnbuckle to pull herself back up. Meanwhile, Cassidy takes position in the opposite corner. He locks eyes with The D on the outside, shooting him a cocky wink... before getting a running start and hitting Elise Ares with The Splash of Jameson!

DDK:

Cassidy's Splash of Jameson... or D's "The D in Your Face." Seems there's still a friendly rivalry here.

Elise stumbles out of the corner... and right into a small package!

ONE!

TWO!

THREE - NO!

At the very, very, very last second, Elise is able to power out of the pin. Cassidy manages to look shocked for just half a second before he puts his game face on again. He sends Ares into the ropes, and on the rebound he throws her into the air, looking for a stun gun... but in an impressive athletic display, instead of Ares' head snapping onto the top rope, she's able to grab a hold of Cassidy's arm... and instead, his injured shoulder snaps over the top! Cassidy shoulders the injured appendage and bangs on the mat in frustration. Ares has landed on the apron, and she springboards over the ropes, landing on Pat with a rolling senton! Elise kips up to her feet and takes a bow for the cheering crowd... but behind her... Pat Cassidy kips up too!!

DDK:

BOTTOM'S UP! Turn around, Elise!

She does... but right into The Irish Goodbye!! Cassidy's snap reverse STO, the very same move that beat The D last night, drives Ares head into the mat. Cassidy also falls, holding his shoulder - having spent his burst of energy. Now both wrestlers are down!

Lance:

What happens if they both get counted down here?

DDK:

I'd say Lindsay Troy gets a bye!

Benny Doyle begins the ten count.

ONE! TWO! THREE! FOUR! FIVE!

Both Elise Ares and Pat Cassidy have begun to stir - both being egged on by their respective corner-person.

SIX! SEVEN! EIGHT! NINE!

Just before ten, both of them are back to their feet. To the approval of the Faithful, they both charge and begin to exchange right hands in a slugfest! Ares! Cassidy! Ares! Cassidy! Ares! Cassidy! Ares! Cassidy! Ares! Cassidy! Cassidy! Cassidy! Cassidy! Cassidy!

DDK:

To little surprise, Pat is getting the better of the brawling exchange!

Elise is reeling and Pat is in control as he sends the Pop Culture Phenom into the ropes. When she comes back, he sets her up for what appears to be an incoming sidewalk slam... but Elise keeps her momentum going, swings around with a surprise headscissors... and locks in Sunset Stretch!!

DDK:

Sunset Stretch!! Elise Ares with a desperation counter into her signature submission... that targets the shoulder!

Elise is now literally hanging off Pat Cassidy as she wrenches on his already injured shoulder. Pat drops to a knee, crying out in pain. He reaches his hand out toward the closest ropes... but he's so, so far away. Ophelia Sykes pounds on the mat to try to get him to rally, as do many of the fans.

Lance:

Are these people being this loud for Ares to win or for Cassidy to break the hold!?

DDK:

I think a little from Column A, a little from Column B!

Pat reaches... reaches... reaches...

...but in the end, he just can't make enough headway, and before he risks permanent shoulder damage, he taps on Elise's shoulder!

DING DING DING

The Faithful erupt as Ares breaks the hold and both of them fall to the canvas. The D immediately slides into the ring to celebrate with his tag team partner as she pushes herself up to her feet.

♪ "Emperor's New Clothes" by Panic! At The Disco ♪

Darren Quimbey:

The winner of this match... EEEEEELIIIIIISE AARRRRRRRRRES!

The D helps the official lift Elise's arm into the air as the victor shoots a wink to Ophelia Sykes as she also slides into the ring to check on Pat Cassidy with the medical team. Pat, now sitting up, receives a pat on his good shoulder from Ares as she walks past and exits the ring with her tag partner. Triumphant.

Lance:

A HUGE win for Elise Ares tonight, but I think the bigger story is Pat Cassidy's shoulder. Between that and Brock Newbludd's exile, things are not looking up for the Saturday Night Specials for the first time in a long time.

DDK:

While I think you're right, Lance, let's not undersell what this means for Elise Ares. So close to the FIST of DEFIANCE a couple years ago, that loss really put her off-track on what we thought was an ascension to the top of this company. The PCPs looked lost for a long time but now Elise Ares continues to stay focused, she COULD win this tournament!

Lance:

Without a doubt, Darren! I can't believe I'm saying this... is Elise Ares the next FIST of DEFIANCE?! She looked GOOD tonight. Imagine the Faithful's reaction if she pins Lindsay Troy on DEFtv 174!

DDK:

No offense to Pat Cassidy, but Lindsay Troy is a completely different task. A certainly more proven opponent in the singles scene in DEFIANCE and around the world. What a match on the next DEFtv! Holy smokes!

ALREADY SPOKEN FOR

A camera crew peruses the hallways of the GCU Arena until they catch up with the always terrifying Teresa Ames who has her nose in her phone. She nearly bumps directly into the camera as she is oblivious to her surroundings.

Teresa Ames:

Shit guy, shit! Watch where you're going with that thing. Usually, I don't mind big heavy things trying to collide with my face but that camera would be a bit too much to handle. Don't want to leave a scar or anything.

The commentary voices of Lance and DDK overlay the developments.

DDK:

Welcome back to DEFtv, everyone and what do we have going on here?

Teresa's attention suddenly turns to the environment around her. It's like a lightswitch goes off as her bitchy attitude melts into a quaint little perky one.

Teresa Ames:

Oh right, the GCU Arena. Shit guy, shit. Isn't this a place to marvel over? They have air dryers in the washrooms and not as much gum as you'd think on the sidewalks surrounding this place. Hey, seeing that you're here, why don't you follow me around for a minute?

Teresa tugs the camera operator by their clothing as she periodically stops to converse with random people.

Teresa Ames:

Hey, hey you there! Fatty with the nachos. Are you spoken for?

The plump man holding the nachos neglects to reply. Instead, he delves in for more cheesy goodness.

Teresa Ames:

Onto the next.

Teresa stops next at a woman of equal or greater beauty than the Tasty Gurl. Ames asserts herself generously.

Teresa Ames:

Excuse me, hot face but are you spoken for at all?

The woman bats her overly long eyelashes as she stares back with emptiness towards Teresa.

Woman:

Why yes, yes I am. I have a loving partner at home. We've been married for five years now.

Ames carries on and finds a group of gnarly teenagers who seem to be more interested in playing around with their hacky sacks than have anything to do with wrestling.

Lance:

What exactly is Teresa trying to prove here?

Teresa Ames:

Excuse me, excuse me, pre-teen teens with pimples on their faces who should be carrying my bags. Are any of you spoken for?

The group of ruffians peer back at Teresa as if she is their mom nagging them to clean their rooms.

Teenager:

Why doesn't your hussy ass run off, yeah? Can't you see we're busy?

Wrong reply. Teresa puts her hand up to their faces.

Teresa Ames:

Pffffffffffffffffffffffffffff, teenie bopper, please. Y'all can't intimidate this caboose. If I were you, I'd start looking for a safe way home because I am everywhere at all times and I will find you if I want you.

The Keyboard Queen walks on, not putting up with anyone's shit as she graciously bumps into none other than DEFIANCE's non-contracted star, Shawn Steele.

Teresa Ames:

Oh hey there. Are you already spoken for by chance?

Shawn gives Teresa the once over with his eyes. He obviously likes what he sees. Who wouldn't? However, poor Shawn isn't well versed enough to know what he's about to get into.

Shawn Steele:

Spoken for? Ummmm, no but I think I am now. I'll do anything, really. So long as it ends up getting me signed. They pay us non-contracted wrestlers next to nothing per appearance. So yeah, I'm interested.

Teresa Ames:

Then follow me.

Steele puts his palms to the sky like his prayers have been answered.

DDK:

Uh oh. Shawn, turn around and run! Quickly! It's not too late!

Lance:

It's too late, Darren.

Shawn begins to walk and talk with his savior.

Shawn Steele:

Where are we going, honey? Out to the ring with an arena filled with people? Who would ever believe there would be such a thing on constant standby?

Teresa Ames:

Just follow me and shut the hell up before I change my mind.

Ames now leads a gaggle of people out to the ring, including Shawn Steele amongst the camera crew members.

DDK:

Well folks, it looks like Teresa has decided to bring her party out here!

Ames doesn't waste a second looking out to the crowd. Instead, her gaze is high towards the rafters and integral structure of the GCU Arena. Shawn Steele is in the background, playing things up to the crowd like he's about to get the biggest break of his pitiful wrestling career. Teresa stops halfway down the ramp to shout to some fans in the front rows.

Teresa Ames:

GUESS WHAT!?! I AM SPOKEN FOR! ARE YOU SPOKEN FOR? TOO BAD. I AM NOW SPOKEN FOR. GET OFF ME.

If this doesn't pump Steele's tires, who knows what will as Teresa slithers her way into the ring. The camera crew makes their exit as the main arena cams are hot, locked and loaded on her highness. Shawn Steele retrieves a microphone and hands it to his newfound goddess. She takes a moment to allow the Faithful to stop stirring before speaking.

DDK:

Here we go. This should be good.

Teresa purses her lips as the disrespect the crowd shows her.

Teresa Ames:

It's my turn to talk now. When I hold this stick in my hand, all y'all trailer park bottom feeders better shut it so I can say what I have to say.

This only adds more fuel to the fire.

Teresa Ames:

Anyways.

Teresa walks over to a turnbuckle and begins groping it suggestively.

Teresa Ames:

I just wanted to come out here and tell everyone and the world that I, Teresa Annette Ames, is officially SPOKEN FOR!

Shawn rubs his hands off to the side like he's about to get a great deal. Teresa suddenly becomes short of breath as she rubs the ring ropes and stares a hole through the ramp.

Teresa Ames:

It is confirmed. I am finally in TRUE LOVE and it was all right in front of me the entire time! My stupid face just didn't see it and none of you helped me either. You're all a bunch of selfish pricks for not helping me see it. Everyone here tonight and everyone watching at home are my sworn enemy for not helping me.

Lance:

I'm not sure anyone really knows what Teresa is referring to here. We can't read her mind. Is she in love with Shawn Steele all of a sudden!?

Teresa Ames:

No matter. None of you can take away the fact that I have a new squeeze. I simply couldn't waste another moment so I had to come out here and profess my love for the new entity that has caught my eye.

Shawn Steele is FEELING himself right now. He's already thinking about what he's going to do with all of Teresa's money once they elope.

Teresa Ames:

Now that my secret is out, I truly feel that a weight has been lifted from my shoulders.

DDK:

Secret? Relieved? Weight lifted from her shoulders? She is speaking in code here. We have no idea what is going on! Is she in love with Shawn Steele or what?

Teresa flips through her phone once more before heavily gasping into the microphone.

Teresa Ames:

Urrrrrrrrgh. The Maverik Center in Salt Lake City, Utah is about to get DEFIED next week and talk about flagpoles.

Shit guy, shit. This place has them in spades unlike the GCU Arena.

She squints her eyes as she really tries her best to take in the GCU Arena.

Teresa Ames:

Uh huh. I knew it. You know what? I will reveal all in an exclusive in-ring sit down interview on the next DEFtv with Lance Warner or some filler staff like that because now I'm not so sure.

She can't stop looking around the arena oddly enough. Ames stops for a very brief moment to eye Shawn Steele who is standing there with a smile and arms out before the Tasty Gurl rolls out of the ring and heads to the back with her brow firmly furrowed.

DDK:

Well if this doesn't have everyone speculating about what's going on in Teresa's brain, I don't know what will. Stay tuned as we will certainly bring you more on this story!

Lord Nigel is out first, followed by Corvo. Corvo methodically stomps his way down the ramp as Lord Trickelbush weaves his hands together in anticipation for what he's about to witness.

With Alpha in the ring, his theme song comes to a close and is replaced by a gaming remix.

And his opponent... from Toronto, Ontario, Canada... weighing two-hundred pounds... The Video Game Kid... CONOR FUSE!

The fans come alive as Conor pops out from behind the FIST logo and starts pumping up the crowd like he's Kirby, sucking them up, spitting them out and getting MF'ing fired up. The scene switches to inside the squared circle where Corvo Alpha is deadpan.

Fuse reaches the bottom of the ramp and then his demeanor changes. He looks at Alpha and swings his arms around to loosen up. Conor jumps onto the apron and then jumps over the top rope, not taking his eyes off of his opponent for a second. Conor tells Mark Shields to call for the bell and the theme song closes, still with Fuse not looking away from the smaller, stalker and much more dangerous man in front of him.

Anticipation grows.

DING DING

The bell rings and Conor Fuse looks apprehensive to meet Corvo Alpha in the center of the ring. Alpha is breathing heavily as Fuse quickly glances at Lord Nigel on the outside and gives a facial expression like where in the hell did Trickelbush find this last level boss. Either way, Fuse shrugs and slowly approaches the center of the ring. Conor raises his hand but Alpha moves forward in an attacking position so Conor jumps back. The crowd watches on, beginning a strong !RANK chant as Alpha keeps his eyes locked on The Ultimate Gamer.

Conor approaches again... and Alpha lunges forward. This time Fuse leaps to his right to avoid the strike. Fuse locks his hands together and begins winding them around while Corvo repositions in the center of the ring once more, his eyes locked on the gamer target and ready to rip him apart.

Finally, Fuse lunges forward and is ready for Alpha to do the same. Conor hops to the side, takes hold of Corvo and uses the former Violator's momentum to steer him into the turnbuckle. Surprisingly, Corvo absorbs the blow and tackles his opponent to the ground with a spear!

Corvo mounts Conor and unloads with a fury of forearms and punches.

DDK:

As we thought, Conor's going to have his hands full in a much different fight than he's used to.

The Power-Up King works his way into the ropes and referee Mark Shields shows he was paying attention by asking Corvo for the break.

However, that's all Shields does. He doesn't remember to count.

Lord Nigel shouts encouragement from the outside as Corvo Alpha digs into Conor Fuse over and over again... before the gamer is able to use the ropes and pull himself out of the ring and to the floor below. Alpha sneers. He hits the ropes on the far end and dropkicks Conor Fuse off the apron the second the former Tag Team Champion gets back onto it. Fuse goes flying into the guardrail and slams his head against the top.

Lance:

Oh! That doesn't look good!

Conor lays motionless on the floor.

DDK:

I think he's out!

It's clear this wasn't a normal collision with the guardrail and Corvo Alpha senses blood. He exits the ring, lifts the younger Fuse and hurls him into the steel steps. Alpha pulls the gamer by his messy blonde hair and runs him into the other steel steps across the way. Then the former FS Champion pushes Conor into the ring.

Fuse has come to, if only on the defensive. He tries to avoid Alpha's fury by backing into the corner but Mark Shields doesn't remember to count again, he just remembers to tell Corvo Alpha to back away. Obviously, Lord Tricklebush tells his boy to do otherwise.

Alpha sends Fuse for an Irish whip across the ring and into the turnbuckle adjacent. Conor hits the padding so hard he flips upright and sits on the top buckle facing away from the ring... only to fall back off the buckle the same way he landed. Fuse stumbles backwards to the center of the ring and Alpha crushes the Fuse Bro. by hitting the ropes and throwing his body like a puck straight into Conor Fuse's back.

DARK TIMES

Backstage in a hidden, tucked away corner of the GCU Arena, we find a slender, behatted figure proselytizing over a seated, hulking man. From this distance, his words aren't clear yet his arms gesticulate enough for us to know that he is trying incredibly hard to inspire.

The seated figure is unmoving beyond his heavy breath, shoulders heaving with each. His long dark hair seems to drip from sweat, his head downcast. He appears not to respond to his flamboyant "coach". This "coach" appears equally unbothered, pressing forward with his message.

The camera zooms and it becomes clear that the preacher is a somewhat unkempt Lord Nigel Trickelbush... and as such, that leaves the one man choir to be Corvo Alpha.

His odd smile pasted and frozen on his face, Nigel continues his sermon to his seated charge, unaware of our prying eye.

Suddenly and with no warning, Alpha bolts to his feet, sending the small wooden stool skittering across the concrete floor. The "choir" left uninspired, it seems, he shoulders past his handler and stomps off into the dark, leaving his odd manager to simply smile his strange smile in the direction of Alpha's departure.

Odd grin still seared to his face, we note a change to the light of Trickelbush's eyes. Is it concern there? Elation? Is it fear? Or something else. It's likely we may never know... as our brief scene fades to black.

Ares points to herself feigning shock before shaking The D's arm.

Elise Ares:

You see that D? I exist! I've finally made the radar! I've been recognized by the "Queen!" If I would've known I would've totes worn something different. I don't want to make you think I always dress like this... wait, I do. I always look good.

The D:

I'm going to be completely honest, I have no idea what's going on. That's a pretty close game in there and I wasn't paying attention.

Elise Ares:

It's alright, neither has Lindsay... for about fourteen years.

Lindsay Troy:

I didn't see anything worth paying attention to. Sonny, did you?

Sonny Silver:

I see a person that looks like a walking dick joke... and then someone named The D standing next to her. But aside from that, nada.

Lindsay Troy:

Isn't it wild how someone could be as insignificant now as they were then? Couldn't be me.

Bad actress laughter immediately follows as Elise hangs onto The D's shoulder.

Elise Ares:

I'm sure everyone is confused so let me narrate the scene for you. It's 2008. I'm 18 years old and just arrived in the United States thanks to PRIME Wrestling. I walk in the door and I'm immediately told how lucky I am to be able to learn under a superstar pioneer like Lindsay Troy! What a resource! She "paved the way" for "girls like me" to be able to actually get a shot in this industry. I owe my WHOLE ASS career to Lindsay Troy! What a gal!

The following eye roll can be heard throughout the GCU Arena.

Elise Ares:

Hey D, Sonny, Aresites presumably... let me tell you about Lindsay Troy's learning tree. It's barren. It's more like a light pole. There's a bright light at the top of it and nothing under it can see anything else. It's a cold interaction in a hallway sometimes where she makes a smart-ass comment then the world collectively loses it about how witty she is. You know what, BBY, I've had the "privilege" of getting to watch your career and I'll let you know that between those ropes you're one of the best to ever lace boots or whatever it is you do with kickpads, but you haven't been entertaining in YEARS! My GOD. It's like watching paint dry and people say my movies are bad!

The D:

Who says our movies are bad? Have they seen Lake Placid VI before?! I'll kill them!

Elise Ares:

Obvs not. Clearly, they've never had to sit through a "5 Star" 60 minute Lindsay Troy snoozer after they've already cleaned up catering. There's a reason I bring a flask everywhere I go.

Ares holds up the flask with a smirk before The D clinks his with hers and they take a drink in unison.

The D:

Totes obvs. I can drink to that!

Lindsay Troy: [yawns, unimpressed]

All I managed to pick out from that drivel is that I'm the greatest to ever do it, and you're big mad about me headlining shows while you flounder around with the rest of the equally untalented. Don't worry though, bb; I'll bring you up to my level in two weeks before sending you back down the mountain where you belong.

Sonny Silver: [whistling like Wile E. Coyote taking a dive off a cliff]

Way... way down.

Elise and The D both watch the imaginary coyote spiral off of Sonny's hand and go splat onto the concrete floor backstage.

The D:

Hey, that was a pretty good whistle. If you're looking for work outside of hyping Lindsay Troy, [puts his hand against his face] like she needs it, we have an opening for a sound effect guy. The last one we had didn't really make...

Elise Ares:

Don't waste your oxygen, D, there aren't enough OLD SKOOL MICS~! left in the world to make Sonny Silver relevant again. I'd rather have Archie. Just a couple of ancient relics still making it by on their accomplishments from fifteen years ago. Trying to keep their spot by trying to intimidate the real talent backstage from coming for them, but it's okay BBY. There will still be a spot for Lindsay Troy when I'm the new FIST of DEFIANCE. We'll make little gold statues that look like Avril Lavigne in 2002.

The D:

We can call them the EI-Tees! Give them out like gold stars to kids when they do something really cool. She can be the first winner! A lifetime achievement award! You must be so proud. Man, it's been a while since we've done a good awards show. Do you think Klein still has his sleeveless tux?

Elise Ares:

You don't just throw something like that away! It's not Sonny Silver.

The D:

Which, by the way, very appropriate name. You seem like a jovial sort.

Elise Ares:

As for our match, I'll be more than happy to show you where you're at on the mountain bb. I'm going to be sooo ready to PRIME. THAT. SHIT.

The Leading Lady of DEFIANCE turns those last three words into a chant, being joined quickly by The D before Klein and Flex exit the room, never wanting to be left out of a good chant. The Pop Culture Phenoms lead the Faithful in an unexpected PRIME THAT SHIT chant as the two members of Vae Victis sneer at them and make their exit.

FIST TOURNAMENT, ROUND 1: ARTHUR PLEASANT (FS) vs. OSCAR BURNS

DDK:

Welcome back to our main event! We've finally arrived at Night Two's main event and the final of the eight ACTS Tournament Round One matches! This one will no doubt be vicious, given the competitors! The Favoured Saints Champion, Arthur Pleasant, is at the top of his game. He'll need that against his opponent... the former two-time FIST of DEFIANCE, Oscar Burns!

Lance:

Both men made pointed comments about this match and seem to feel victory is at hand, but only one man can be right! We'll see who rounds out the final eight coming up right now for our main event! Let's get to Darren Quimbey for intros!

To Darren Quimbey in the ring!

Darren Quimbey:

Ladies and gentlemen, the following contest is the final ACTS Tournament Round One match and is your main event of the evening! Introducing first... from Wellington, New Zealand, weighing in at 237 pounds... he wants you to know that HE IS DEFIANCE... OSCAR BURNS!

♪ "Ultimate Battle" by Fredriech Habetler ♪

The opening montage plays some of Burns' greatest hits over the opening intro to the theme... Burns with his two previous FIST and WrestleUTA World Title wins. Burns with his DEFy wins. Burns with his record fiftieth win and his SIXTIETH win DEFIANCE! There's no rotating platform this time since he destroyed it back at MAXDEF... but emerging from the darkness, Burns tilts his head upward, wearing a complete poker face. He speaks to the camera in front of him.

Oscar Burns:

THIS AIN'T A COMEBACK, GCs, CAUSE I NEVER LEFT! THIS IS MY COMPANY! !! AM! DEFIANCE!

He heads to the ring, taking in the jeers from the crowd before walks up the steel steps. He wipes his feet on the ring apron, then climbs between the ropes. He then leaps to the middle rope and raises a finger to each side of the arena, getting jeers from each end!

DDK:

If MAXDEF did a number on his ego, he's trying not to show it.

Lance:

When he spoke on UNCUT, he was ready for this match. He'll need to be against somebody with the sheer unpredictability factor that Arthur Pleasant has.

Burns takes a spot in the corner and leans back, waiting for his opponent to arrive.

The GCU Arena fills with boos as the lights go out. Biblical-esque vocalizing interrupts the booing and is soon facilitated by pulsating drums and guitars. A plague-esque green spotlight shines down on the Favored Saints Champion as he is seen on stage. Looking down at the ground with both hands clasped together and the Favored Saints Championship draped across his shoulder, Arthur Pleasant simply takes it all in as the green spotlight slowly begins to spread throughout the capacity crowd in a "plague-like" effect..

PLAGUEBEAST... ARTHUUUUUURRR PLLLEEEAAASAAANT!

As he walks down the ramp, Pleasant extends his arms out to his sides as if to “absorb” the hatred of everyone. A sickening grin hugs his mug as he embraces the Faithful’s vitriol with every fiber of his gilded being. Walking up the steps, Pleasant lowers his arms and looks out into the sea of Faithful yearning for his demise. Soon, the green effect fades away to natural lighting and Pleasant makes his way halfway across the ring apron and stares out into the crowd, raising his championship high into the air at the hard cam side of the GCU Arena.

Both men are face to face. Arthur with a shit-eating grin, Burns with a pensive expression. DEFIANCE’s head official Benny Doyle calls for the bell.

DING DING

Arthur surprises Oscar at the bell with a huge push kick to the chest! As he stumbles back, he takes hold of the arm of DEFIANCE itself and cranks on it, scoring with the first move! He laughs as he has hold of arguably the best pure mat technician in DEFIANCE and continues to torque it!

DDK:

Arthur has shown some dedication to the ring, for better or for worse. More in shape than he was before, more in-ring acumen... but is Oscar Burns the guy he wants to try this out on?

Lance:

This may not be wise!

He continues to do so... until Burns spins him around into one of his own. He isn’t playing tonight and CRANKS harder, forcing Arthur to wince. The Plaguebeast decides he’s had enough and wedges his foot between them to break the hold so he can resume grabbing hold of Oscar’s arm! He continues to crank back some more... until Oscar once again spins around and this time, goes behind Arthur with a hammerlock. Arthur tries to grab a limb, but Oscar stays just out of his reach for a moment. Until finally, he dips back and then Arthur goes for the hold! Arthur Pleasant:

Clearly knowing what button to push, Burns snaps up, but he falls right into Arthur’s trap and gets snapped over in a headlock again!

DDK:

Burns tried to play off that Dex Joy loss on UNCUT, but Arthur showed otherwise. It’s still a sore spot for Oscar.

Burns fights back by elbowing Arthur in the chest and then launching him into the ropes, but Arthur comes back and knocks him over with another push kick! He spills to the mat and the fans are mostly taken aback with how Arthur is controlling the early going. He goes for Burns again, then CRACKS the Kiwi in the chest with a big Muay Thai-style kick! Oscar having a little trouble getting going tonight!

Arthur KICKS him again, knocking the stuffing right out of the former two-time FIST and making it look easy. He disrespects the former two-time FIST by thrashing a boot against his face, then tries to go for a suplex... but Burns snaps around for a go-behind! Arthur blocks with an elbow to the face, then spins around to clock Burns with what looks to be a roaring elbow... SMACK!

DDK:

OOH! Hard Out Headbutt by Burns! That caught Arthur off-guard!

Lance:
