

PRE-RETALIATION

Tonight is a very special Retaliation as it is the official Untouchable Pre-show. Have you purchased Untouchable yet on Pay-PerView? If not, you need to hurry because it begins in just one hour. Until then, you click

Welcome folks to the Retaliation taping dark match results. I'm the newest addition to the DEFIANCEwrestling.com website, your correspondent for all things DEFIANCE, David Smith. Retaliation is in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania at the Mellon Area. The crowd is still packing in as they are getting ready for tonight's Pay-Per View Untouchable which is up right after this stream!

Tucker G. Alston vs Sam Turner, Jr.

Alston took control early on when he was able to place Sam Turn Jr. into a headlock from a lock up position, then sending him into the ropes and following up with a hip toss. However, Turner was able to gather some momentum by catching an unsuspecting Tucker Alston with a big boot.

Sam Turner Jr. made a critical mistake after whipping Tucker into the corner. he attempted to follow up with a splash, only for Alston to move. Tucker used the situation to list Turner to his feet and hit the Sanctuary for the three count in a good back and forward bout.

Dragon Jones vs Sam Johnson

Dragon Jones pumped the crowd up as he came to put on a fight worthy of the PPV itself. From the bell, Dragon Jones unleashed a fury upon Sam Johnson with vicious lefts and rights into uppercuts. However, it was when he began to hit a series of visually stunning suplexes that we knew this match was over. There was nothing from Sam Johnson expect the pain and agony of being on the receiving end of Seven Feet Under from Dragon Jones who picked up the win.

Jeremy Knyte vs Lash Graham

In the third and final dark match before Retaliation, Jeremy Knyte attempted to over power Lash Gram from the get go, and succeeded for a moment. However, after a dropkick from nowhere, Graham followed up with a series of quick and precise moves. This was thwarted when Jeremy Knyte caught Graham in the midsection with his knees after a standing moonsault attempt.

Knyte would go on to control the back, bringing it back to a slow and steady pace. He introduced Lash Graham's head to the top turnbuckle before realizing he would not be able to do any more damage to Lash's head than already done. Knyte would turn his back on Graham briefly in a move that would cost him the match as Lash pulled Knyte over into a schoolboy out of nowhere and secured the three count.

^ I Promise, It Will Get Better. Just Pretend for Now. ^

[As the logo burst through the screen, we go to an energized crowd of Pittsburgh's finest wrestling fans screaming their heads off, ready for even more action packed, fucking awesome DEFIANCE action. We zoom in on the fans as the camera moves from the back of the arena toward the stage.

These DEFIANCE fans are one of a kind, which can be seen by the various signs in the crowd:

Untouchable!

I Want Cancer Jiles to Touch Me.

I Get to View this Because I Paid.

Where is Eric Dane?

As we finally find the stage, the camera rest upon it, showing off the new Retaliation set. Three screens and a ton of metal, yea, this is the big leagues baby.]

[Strobe lights begin to flash across the bottom of the entrance set as a set of smoke machines let out blast of fog. The fans get crazy as they know, RETALIATION is about to begin.]

[The camera fades from the stage to actually focus on the two men sitting behind the broadcast table.]

Mayer:

Here we are! It's time for the special Untouchable pre-show!

Stein:

If you haven't ordered the pay-per-view yet, you need to as it is guaranteed to be better than your mother's home made meatloaf!

Mayer:

That's not hard to do at all Frank.

Stein:

Enough talking, it's time. I know the fans out there are ready. Let's get it... RETALIATION IS HERE! Following directly, live on pay-per-view... UNTOUCHABLE!

Mayer:

Lets move to the ring where The Blood Diamonds and Philospher Kings are ready to kick Retaliation off.

The Philosopher Kings vs Blood Diamonds

[As the camera moves to the ring, all six participant are already down. Troy Matthews and Frank Dylan James are in the ring, ready to start it off..] Stein: Retaliation is here and we are kicking it off with awesome Trios action! Mayer: I've been waiting for this match all week! [The bell sounds.] Stein: And we're off! Mayer: FDJ and Troy Matthews will be starting this off. [Matthews looks to his team mates, then to the crowd before pointing at Frank Dylan James. He runs toward the large man.] THWAK!~ [FDJ doesn't fuck around and he just throws a fist out, catching the oncoming Troy Matthews right in the face. Matthews flies back, hitting the mat and instantly grabbing his face.] Stein: What a big fist by Frank Dylan James! Mayer: That had to hurt

[FDJ heads toward Troy Matthews who quickly rolls away and leaps up with a hot tag to Eddie Dante.]

Stein: Frank Dylan James is just a beast.

[Dante, after being tagged, grabs the top rope and uses it to pull himself up. He shoots over the top rope flipping, with his legs crashing into an oncoming FDJ.]

Stein:

Eddie Dante takes down the big Frank Dylan James. Mayer: His quick style can be a factor for his team here.

[Dante runs to the nearby corner turnbuckle, climbing. He leaps off, flipping backward in the air and landing across FDJ.]

Stein: Pin attempt by Eddie Dante. Mayer: Kick out at one.

[FDJ pushes himself up. Eddie Dante runs at him and leaps. FDJ catches him, slamming Dante to the mat. James walks over and tags in Nicky Corozzo.]

Stein: Corozzo now in the ring with Eddie Dante.

[Nicky Corozzo heads toward Eddie Dante who slides out of the ring quickly.]

Stein: Eddie Dante escaping. Mayer: Mushigihara is rushing the ring now though! Stein: There was no tag. Mayer: The referee has lost control of this match.

[Corozzo and Mushigihara exchange rights and lefts as the referee tries to break them up.]

Stein: Nicky Corozzo whips Mushigihara into the ropes. Mayer: He follows up with a clothesline, sending Mushigihara crashing to the floor!

[Eddie Dante slides into the ring behind Nicky Corozzo. he runs and drop kicks Nicky in the back, who stumbles forward. As he does, Virginia Quell tags him.]

Stein: Virginia Quell in the ring now. Mayer: Here she goes!

[Quell hits the ring and catches Dante in the gut with a kick. She grabs him and turns.]

Stein: THE QUEEN'S ROYAL SEAL!!! Mayer: From nowhere!

[Quell hits her finisher and covers Eddie Dante. As the referee hits the three the bell sounds.]

Stein: BLOOD DIAMONDS WIN!

The CVCHTNK Challenge

[Suddenly, an excited commotion breaks out in some ringside audience seats. The action appears onscreen as the camera pans over to catch it and we see a figure make his way through the fans in that section, all of whom have jumped to their feet to try to score a high five or lay a hand on him. There is no security personnel to hold them back. Grinning, he jumps up to stand on a now empty seat, microphone in hand.]

Python:

You lucky sons a' bitches are in for a long night full of awesome.

[The capacity crowd voices their approval. The young highflyer pauses with a smile as he spots a nearby young fan holding a homemade paper sign with his face on it.]

Python:

Ya know, this city holds a lot of special memories for me. When I was a kid, the first wrestling show I ever went to with my dad was right over at the Civic. Remember it like it was yesterday. We drove in from Jersey and I had on my favorite t-shirt for my favorite tag team at the time, Weppon X. They had the main event slot defending the tag titles against these asshole brothers Cliff and Scott, who had been trying for weeks to win acceptance into an equally asshole clique who was hellbent on taking down my boys in Weppon X. So there I am, wide eyed and star struck in the front row as the match unfolded. Standing on the chair, screaming at the guys in the ring, the whole nine yards. I was like... I dunno, maybe seven or eight years old. And then, to my horror... one of the guys from the clique rolled out from under the ring with a chair, ref had his back turned, yada yada yada, my night ended with Cliff and Scott taking home the gold and the whole clique pummeling an unconscious Weppon X in the ring until security had to come break it up. As I stood completely heartbroken and lost in my disbelief, my dad put his hand on my shoulder and told me something that I'll live by until the day I die. He said "Matt, there are a lot of shitty people in this world and you can't take them all on yourself. But if you step up to deal with yours, there will be others who step up to deal with the rest."

[A heavy pause.]

Python:

Later tonight, I'm going up against Chance von Crank.

BOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO!!!

Python:

Yeah, "boooooooo!" They don't come any shittier than that guy. Now, I'm not in this business to hurt people. I don't do what I do for the end result, I do it because I love it and I love giving to people what my favorite wrestlers have given to me over the years. Hope, memories, something to cheer for. Because at the end of the day... life is fucking hard, man. For you, for me, for everyone. And all most people want are moments to grab onto and live in, to get away from the stress of work and shitty people and politics and depressing stories on the news and the economy and really just to feel great. Even if it's only for an hour or two, or a couple of minutes. So yeah, I love having the opportunity to do what I do. And like I said, I don't do it to hurt people. But every once in a while, someone comes along who makes me cherish every second of kicking their ass.

RAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHH!!!

Python:

You can call me names, you can have your fun, you can try to cut me down. That's fair play in this game. But Cranky, you've crossed a very difficult line between what's fair play and what's disrespectful to your profession. When you're playing a part in giving professional wrestling a shitty reputation, that's where it gets personal for me. I know I can speak for a lot of guys in that locker room when I say that we work hard to make this company and this profession as a whole entertaining. Exciting. Relevant and interesting. And above all... respectable. I may not see eye to eye with some of those guys, but we have that common goal. We demand respect for this business that we love. And I'll be damned if I'm going to let a second-rate...

OOOOHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHH!

Python:

No-talent...

OOOOHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHH!

Python:

Shit-brained...

OOOOHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHH!

Python:

Waste of roster space motherfucker like you come in here and ruin that!

RAAAAAAAAAAAAAHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHH!

Python:

And furthermore, good people of Pittsburgh... Chance von Crank has disrespected you. The fans. And that is the last straw for me. So I'm going to give you all a very, very special gift. Chance von Crank has taken to flashing us his nads for the past week, yeah? Well, now that I know where to find them, I'm going to kick them very squarely tonight. Three times. Just for you guys.

RAAAAAAAAAAAAAHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHH!

RAAAAAAAAAAAAAHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHH!

Python:

As of this moment, the Chance von Crank Hat Trick Nut Kick Challenge is officially underway! You're very welcome. I'd better hear you guys keeping score.

[With that, Python tosses the mic to a crew member at ringside, slaps a few hands, and makes his way through the mob of fans crowding the aisle around him. He eventually reaches a backstage entrance, gives a final salute to the cheering fans, and disappears.]

Jane Katze vs Lisa Loeh

Meyer:

I've got to say, I've been looking forward to this one all night!

Stein:

Why am I not surprised? Fans, up next we've got the singles match between Jane Katze of the Blood Diamonds, and Lisa Loeh of Tres Brujas.

Meyer:

I know Jane's actually a good wrestler with plenty of ways to hurt you, and I know that Lisa's got the wrestling pedigree, but she's a funny one – she's hot, but I can't really get a feel for what she's all about.

Stein:

I'm sure she'd never let you get away with it.

Meyer:

Can't blame me for hoping, though!

[Jane Katze has just finished her ring entrance.]

[The arena lights dim and a glowing blue and pink backdrop appears behind the stage entrance. A black silhouette of a girl struts out in front of it. That girl dances, her hips swinging, her back arching, as the music increases in volume.]

[Jane lets go slowly. Lisa stands up, Jane's right on her, jumping to apply a bodyscissor – and Lisa slams her into the mat, steps over her legs, applies a half crab, switches to an STF, hammerlocks one arm, and ties up the other one, then kneels up, torquing Jane's back.]

Stein:

Impressive, I wasn't aware that Lisa could... well, wrestle.

Meyer:

My understanding is that she can wrestle a lot better than she lets on, she just doesn't like to.

[Jane gets her free leg inside the hold to break loose, upends Lisa onto her shoulders, sits down on the backs of her knees for a pin. One... two... and Lisa manages to kick her off. Jane's right back on it, hooking a waistlock – Lisa does a quick sit-out to reverse, takes Jane down to the mat, and then applies an amateur wrestling style full body press. [Jane manages to flip Lisa over her shoulders. And frustrated, instead of trying a scissorhold, she shuffle kicks Lisa in the jaw, knocking her to the mat. One, TWO... Kickout!]

Stein:

Narrow escape by Lisa Loeh there, who I don't think was expecting this to turn into a real wrestling match kind of match.

[Jane picks her back up, hooks the guillotine headlock, and Lisa takes her over in a Northern Lights suplex! One, two, kickout.]

[Lisa aims a Kenka kick at Jane's head. Jane, who's a trained martial artist, ducks the hard but clumsy kick easily. Chickenwinging both of Lisa's arms, she hooks her up in the Champagne Dreams (stunt rider stretch). Moving inch by inch, Lisa manages to get to the ropes.]

Meyer:

It takes a lot of lower body strength to fight the leverage of the stunt rider stretch. I can't help but wonder how Lisa would fare if she adopted some of Jane's moves.

Stein:

You would wonder that.

[Jane kicks Lisa in the head and throws her into the corner. She then stands on the middle rope.]

Stein:

I've seen this, it's a modified dropkick she calls the Caviar Dreams.

Meyer:

[Jane does the banzai bounce and swings her feet down.]

[Lisa has rolled out of the way at the last second.]

[Jane hits the turnbuckle, lands on her back, Lisa grabs her ankles, rolls over her into a tight schoolboy (schoolgirl?) press, and plants her ankles back behind her own head! One, two, and THREE!]
