MATERIAL GIRL

We see Tabitha Kinsey's parlor room, decorated with her past titles and honorary degrees and framed photos with global dignitaries and people of power, her magazine covers, and more. She sits in her high-backed chair, sipping on her tea. Behind her on the desk are her nest of Faberge Eggs.

The door creaks open. The newly engaged Caitlyn Kinsey walks in. Her black hair has changed slightly from her manic pixie dream girl banged look to something more traditionally straight. She's wearing a grey sweater over a white blouse tucked into pressed khaki pants.

Tabitha Kinsey:

Ah, Caitlyn, lovey! Come in! We have much to discuss.

Caitlyn Kinsey:

I... I know. First, just about the wedding —

Tabitha Kinsey:

There's no need to discuss that, lovey. I understand JJ took you by surprise. I have been a part of wrestling weddings before. Don't worry, I will keep my distance since I know it may be... awkward... between me and Teri. Of course, she might not be there if things go awry for her beforehand.

Caitlyn squirms.

Tabitha Kinsey:

So what I would like to do is to have a celebration afterwards on your own. You can have it on my yacht in Martha's Vineyard, and then you can depart with your true love around the world wherever you want! All expenses paid for.

Caitlyn Kinsey:

Grandma, you don't have to do that.

Tabitha Kinsey:

Folly. You are my only granddaughter. And while there have been many things I have enjoyed since my return to wrestling... the best part, by far, is the development of our long overdue relationship. I could not possibly adore and love you more, and your happiness is all I want. I certainly carry some responsibility for my strained relationship with your mother. I never want that to happen to us.

Caitlyn Kinsey:

I... I feel the same about you. Oh, uhm, except for meeting JJ, of course.

Tabitha Kinsey:

I also have one more gift for you, lovey.

Tabitha reaches back behind the Faberge Eggs and has a white envelope. In old handwriting the envelope reads "INSTRUCTIONS."

Caitlyn Kinsey:

Grandma, I can't. You've already given me too much money —

Tabitha Kinsey:

It's not money. It's something else that will provide you with your future. But you will receive it only after your wedding celebration is completed. It's also the most treasured gift I can give you.

Tabitha puts the envelope back between her Faberge Eggs.

Tabitha Kinsey:

Now is when you want to begin to talk to me about your match.

Caitlyn Kinsey:

Yes, I... I have a few things to say.

Tabitha Kinsey:

Of course. But first, allow me to show you something.

The Faceless Butler starts to set up a video projector. The camera shows a family video in the same film stock of the beginning credits of "The Wonder Years."

Tabitha Kinsey:

Do you remember your 7th birthday party? When your mother actually returned my call and decided to let you come over for the small party I had planned?

Caitlyn Kinsey:

I... I don't, actually.

Tabitha Kinsey:

Do you still like Madonna, dear?

Caitlyn Kinsey:

Uh, yeah, of course. The greatest, except for maybe Taylor Swift.

Tabitha Kinsey:

Who?

The film plays and we see Caitlyn at her birthday. Aurora is actually laughing and having a good time next to Tabitha as Caitlyn comes out dressed like a 7-year-old Madonna standing next to a real-life Madonna impersonator who is doing the singing. Description and everything.

Caitlyn awkwardly lip-syncs. She doesn't quite know the lyrics.

Young Caitlyn:

(Poorly Lip-syncing to the song) Some boys romance/some boys slow dance/that's all right with me/If they can't raise their interest/Then I have to let them be

Then young Caitlyn looks up at her beaming grandmother and there's a new look of confidence on her face. These lyrics she knows and she actually sings them.

Young Caitlyn:

Some boys try and some boys lie but I don't let them play, no way/Only boys who save their pennies/Make my rainy day...

The whole party now sings, except for Tabitha

Young Caitlyn/Party:

Because we are living, in a material world/And I am a material girl/You know that we are living in a material world/And I am a material... a material... a material girl!

Back to our current timeline.

Caitlyn Kinsey:

Oh my god... How do I not remember any of this? At all?

Tabitha Kinsey:

Well, that's because I had yet another huge argument with your mother after the party. That was actually the last time I saw you, until recently. I'd imagine it's not a memory your mother is fond of, so I assume she made sure it was a memory you never had, even if it was a happy one.

Caitlyn looks down at the floor, a hint of guilt on her face.

Tabitha Kinsey:

After the party, I got you a nice present to give to you for the next birthday celebration of yours I would be so lucky to attend. Obviously, that never happened. But I'd like to give you the present now in celebration of your big win, lovey.

The Faceless Butler comes with a poster of Madonna's True Blue album cover. There's also something in silver written on it that Caitlyn reads.

Caitlyn Kinsey:

"To my biggest fan, Caitlyn Kinsey, Tabitha's Little Material Girl" Wait, how...

Tabitha smiles.

Tabitha Kinsey:

Oh, I've known Madge for years. When did we first meet? I think Paris Fashion Week? The only reason she couldn't come to your actual birthday party was because she was in London recording Hard Candy.

Caitlyn Kinsey:

What's that?

Tabitha Kinsey:

Exactly. Anyways, I showed Madge your performance when we met for lunch with Camilla and she signed it right away.

Caitlyn Kinsey:

That's so embarrassing, Grandma!

Tabitha Kinsey:

Well, anyways, the poster is yours, lovey. It's a long-awaited gift, and one you deserve for your fantastic first victory!

Caitlyn fidgets.

Tabitha Kinsey:

Now is when you're supposed to tell me how you didn't want to win your first match that way, and you're mad at me for how I manipulated the situation.

Caitlyn Kinsey:

Well, yeah. You completely did. You convinced me to put my career on the line. Then you and Cristiano attacked JJ's friends, and you tried to rip off Teri's finger. And you know me and JJ want to stay out of all of this.

Tabitha Kinsey:

Well, of course I attacked Teri. Because she stole my wedding ring and nearly broke my face. That's how wrestling works.

Caitlyn Kinsey:

And then you had Dubya came out to distract the ref before I won. And you know I despise Dubya. I could have won that match on my own.

Tabitha Kinsey:

You're also conveniently forgetting the part where you willingly used the Faberge Egg I paid someone to stash at ringside that you discovered.

Pause.

Caitlyn Kinsey:

I didn't want to win my first match like that. The only reason why I used it is because, well... I was in the moment and desperate.

Tabitha Kinsey:

Well, lovey, the thing is... you won your first match. And it went beyond just you preserving your young career. Caitlyn, do you really think I'd let that be the end of your career? I have a team of former Attorney Generals on retainer for issues such as that. Deep down inside, you knew that.

She doesn't let Caitlyn respond.

Tabitha Kinsey:

No, Caitlyn. There was another reason why you wanted to win. Why you needed to win, wasn't there?

Caitlyn Kinsey:

Yes... because... because I didn't want... I didn't want to disappoint you.

Tabitha sips her tea gently.

Tabitha Kinsey:

I know, lovey. Because you've come to understand the name Kinsey means something. People with our last name, of our societal place, do not make it a habit of losing. Plus... my aim was not to manipulate you. It was to put your fiance to the test.

Caitlyn Kinsey:

Wait, what? I thought you liked JJ?

Tabitha Kinsey:

I do. But Because he left you by your lonesome to save that wretched Teri --

Caitlyn Kinsey:

Because you were torturing her!

Tabitha Kinsey:

Believe me, I could have done much worse. He went to Teri's aid. And like I told you previously... you have to ask yourself who and what he truly puts first. It wasn't you and what I think you have come to understand. You may want to talk to him about that before you marry him.

Caitlyn Kinsey:

We did already. He apologized.

Tabitha Kinsey:

Good. But is he going to apologize the next time? Or the time after that? People get attached to the apron strings of their mothers, even if it's their mother in name only.

Caitlyn doesn't say anything.

Tabitha Kinsey:

Now is the time when you awkwardly leave to tell me you need to go watch JJ's first match in a few months. I understand. He's the man you love. But, just remember... my marriage to your dear, departed grandfather worked so well because I was my own person first. Is it the same with you... lovey?

Caitlyn looks down and nods.

Caitlyn Kinsey:

Thank you, Grandma. For the talk. For the gift. For everything.

Caitlyn takes the giant, framed Madonna poster and goes. Tabitha strokes Livia The Cat, who now purrs and meows.

BADLANDS

JJ Dixon stands in the backstage area. His dark hair is now styled up a bit with a 1960s Greaser beat poet look. He's wearing an older blue denim jean jacket without sleeves, no shirt on underneath showing his physique (a slimmer, more athletic frame since he's forsaken weight training for more natural methods) over black trunks.

JJ Dixon:

I'm about to step into the ring Strong AF. I feel for you, brother, because you're at a crossroads.

I'm in one, too.

In the most important way, this has been the best few months of my life. I fell in love with my future bride, Caitlyn Kinsey. They've also been confusing months, since I've had to walk around the minefield between Caitlyn's grandma and my forever "It's Complicated" Teri Melton.

But, man, these past few months have been some of the worst of my life, too. It's taken me a while to process all of that. And it made me think about my mom -- wherever she is right now.

I told ya'll about my upbringing a little bit -- growing up in Houston-area apartment complexes best known for their asbestos exposure. My Ma Dukes? She tried her best, but man she was constantly in some drama and runnin' into calamities.

But a moment that stands out the most for me? My mom got herself together enough for us to move into a place where I had an actual bed and everything and not one I had to fold up into a couch every morning.

She was so proud and happy that she was finally able to make that dream of hers happen, because as small as it may seem to be, she was finally getting to where she wanted to be.

A few weeks living there, the refrigerator shorted out. The landlord? Some rich guy who owned a bunch of buildings, wearing some expensive suit, driving around town in a black Mercedes. He said we broke the fridge and refused to pay to fix it.

My mom broke down crying, because she didn't have the money to fix a lousy $250 refrigerator. And the crying didn't stop for weeks. She just stayed in bed. Soon enough, me and my mom were moving back into a place that should've been condemned and I once again enjoyed the comfort of a pull-out couch bed.

Now, you all know my story here in DEFIANCE -- a struggling kid right at the "good luck in your future endeavors" area of the roster for years. But I kept holding on, waiting for my chance. Because all I wanted was for people to know the name JJ Dixon.

Guess what?

I met Teri Melton. I won matches. I won matches on Pay Per Views. I beat the great Oscar Burns. I damn nearly won the FIST.

People knew the name JJ Dixon!

Hell, dare I say that me and Teri - okay, mostly Teri - became the darlings of UNCUT?

Uncut Gems!

Uncut Gems!

Uncut Gems!

JJ smiles and motions with his arms for the crowd to make this chant louder.

JJ Dixon:

But then my shoulder? It went pop. Then it went more pop against Nathan Eye. Then it went completely dead against Arthur Pleasant. I had surgery. I got shelved for a bit.

Now, an injured shoulder ain't the biggest thing in this history of wrestling injuries. But the biggest injury came to my brain, right? I just got filled with all of this anxiety, 'cause it's still very fresh in my memory that I was about to get my dream taken from me. Was I going to get booted from DEFIANCE again? Was I going to go back to being a punchline?

Were people going to forget the name JJ Dixon?

Now, I fell into a whiny, introspective, existentialist Teenage Wasteland phase, complete with a backpack with an alien patch and a My Chemical Romance T-Shirt. Actually, check them out, Welcome To The Black Parade rips.

But a few days ago, I dug into the classics courtesy of a Teri recommendation -- Bruce Springsteen, especially, and the song "Badlands," specifically. And I didn't hear, but I felt those lyrics, man.

JJ closes his eyes and starts to sing in a decent Bruce impersonation.

JJ Dixon:

I'm caught in a crossfire that I don't understand.

And all of a sudden, I realized why my mom broke down and cried that day. Because that was how I felt about myself -- why, when I had all of the momentum in the world, did I have a setback like that? And my mom, she felt that way, too. She felt trapped, like she'd never be able to escape, that everything she ever earned was going to be taken from her.

I feel that way. I know there's a lot of you out The Faithful who feel that way, too.

Maybe it was when you had to park your beater old car on the side of a road, now equipped with two flat tires and an already maxed out credit card. And right then, a 17-year-old driving a new Escalade drives by and he and his friends roll down the window to laugh at you.

Maybe it's because you're six figures deep in student loan debt and you have to work a job you hate with a boss you despise and you'll never be able to make the movie you already filmed in your head. And then you hear about your college classmate who just got a plum job working on a film set, all because daddy knows a few people in the industry.

Or maybe you just feel lonely and out-of-step, like you don't belong, and you have nothing to show for all the hard work you do, while the people who already have find ways to just take more and more.

Like Bruce sang in Badlands...

You spend your life waiting for a moment that just don't come.

JJ shakes his head, with an understanding but sad look on his face.

JJ Dixon:

But I refuse to wait for a moment that just don't come. I'm going to make moments happen.

Because they ain't just for me. They're for everyone who needs a moment for themselves, too.

I've come to not accept but to embrace that I ain't just wrestling for myself. I'm wrestling for all the people like us who want and need someone to fight for us -- like the little kid I was, watching his mom cry because a creep landlord refused to fix a refrigerator that cost $250.

There's another line in that song that also gets me, man.

For the ones who had a notion, a notion deep inside. It ain't no sin to be glad you're alive.

BOOM. Once I heard -- no, felt -- that line, it clicked with me that I'm so incredibly lucky that I had my friends and especially Caitlyn at my side, to let me know I wasn't going through this alone.

They reminded me. I am a professional wrestler -- and a damn good one.

This business has given me so much, even with all the ups and the many, many downs. I made deep connections and lifelong friendships with people who truly get me and love me.

Most importantly, I get to share all of this with the love of my life, my future bride, Caitlyn Kinsey!

JJ does an "aww shucks" chuckle at that chant, knowing the reputation of The Faithful's cynicism. He just continues.

JJ Dixon:

It's also about loving the work that gets you there -- the work that makes you better. I ain't just talking about in-ring and training. I'm talking about the work I have to do to be a better friend, a better man and, in just a few days, the work it takes to be the best damn husband I can be!

Because I don't want people to know the name JJ Dixon.

I want the name JJ Dixon to mean something!

I want the name JJ Dixon to mean something to the people out there who've been told their whole damn lives their names don't mean nothing by the people who already have everything.

I want the name JJ Dixon to mean something... to you!

JJJJJJJJJ!

JJ smiles and pumps his fist against his heart with each chant of the letter of his name.

JJ Dixon:

Now we get to you, Strong AF.

I've known you for a while now. I've never really liked you all that much. You walk in the locker rooms in DEFIANCE and down in BRAZEN and when I run into you at the gym, shoving people around, actin' like you're somebody special just because you're big and think you're bad.

I ain't never really cared for people like you, Strong AF.

But now? You just got tossed to the curb by your old pals in Team HOSS.

So you've got to ask yourself where you stand, not just as a wrestler, but as a man.

Are you going to look at yourself in the mirror about why you're out on your own? Are you going to accept that -- like me, like everyone -- there's a lot of work you need to do to become better?

And like I said before, not just at our profession.. But at life itself.

Or are you going to stay in your old ways, kicking people when they're already down, laughing at people who ain't as strong as you?

You need to ask yourself if you want people to just know your name as it currently stands... or if you want your name to mean something.

I can't answer that for you.

But what I can and will do is ram your skull into the mat after a drive straight down...

JJ's learned from Teri (aka the best.) He pauses and smiles so the crowd says it with him.

JJ Dixon/Crowd:

Sun! Set! Boulevard!

When you wake up, I hope you figure that out for yourself.

As for me going forward? Besides being married, there's one thing on my mind.

And the best lines in Badlands say it all!

(Singing)

Poor man wants to be rich/Rich man wants to be king/The king ain't satisfied/until he rules everything.

JJ Dixon?

Well, until we make things right in this world, he ain't ever going to be satisfied!

JJ smiles and tosses the microphone up in the air and lets it fall to the floor as the crowd once again starts to chant his name. As he starts to walk to the ring. Right as the song cues up...

JJ DIXON vs. STRONG AF

♪ "Badlands" by Bruce Springsteen ♪

The UNCUT crowd is on its feet, with the bigger Bruce fans in the crowd clapping along to the up-tempo and joyous tempo of the sound. JJ then walks out, and throws his fist high into the air to their applause. He then starts screaming at the crowd in words we can't hear from the top of the entrance.

Strong AF is already in the ring, leaning against the top rope, staring at JJ, before heading to his corner.

DDK:

Those were some strong and rousing words from JJ, partner!

Lance:

Yes they were, Keebs. You can tell he's gone through a lot these past few months and weeks, as he recounted. It's also really clear that JJ's incredibly pumped up for his first match since his loss to Arthur Pleasant!

DDK:

From what it sounds like, JJ's made a return much quicker than originally thought after his surgery. We heard he would be out for months!

Lance:

At DEF 178, JJ detailed his revamped training routine developed by Teri Melton after he lost a classic against MV1 just two weeks earlier, moving from weight training to an all-natural exercises built around a high-active cardio routine. JJ attributes that to getting back so quickly.

JJ continues to head to the ring, slapping fans with members of the crowd who are reaching out to him. JJ smiles the entire time. JJ hops up on the ring apron, before stepping through ropes and onto the second turnbuckle, while nodding along to the song. He proudly looks around the arena holding his hands up.

Then the chorus comes in with Bruce and the E Street Band singing BADLANDS! The arena's floodlight flash brightly in sync with those words. The rest of the chorus slowly winds down before stopping. JJ leans off and tears off his Jean jacket and tosses it down with enthusiasm to the floor and screams out "Come onnnn!!!!" as the crowd starts to cheer more!

The music stops abruptly and JJ hops off the corner with the audience applauding.

Benny Doyle calls for the bell.

DING DING

As soon as the bell rings, Strong AF charges and rams JJ with a running shoulder block.

DDK:

And now we see how Strong AF feels about this jubilee.

Lance:

JJ got caught up in the excitement of this return and raucous response. I can't blame him, but Strong AF has a lengthy track record of success here, even with his recent ousting in Team HOSS.

The big man now wrenches on JJ's left shoulder. And a second time. And a third time.

Lance:

That's the shoulder JJ had surgery on a few weeks ago. While he healed up much faster than expected, that is going to be a huge target — especially for someone as vicious as Strong AF!

JJ grabs the top rope with his right hand. But instead of breaking, Strong AF continues to wrench the left arm. JJ still holds onto the top rope and uses the leverage he has to do a forward flip. And then chops Strong AF's grip.

DDK:

JJ now hits the former Team HOSS member with a forearm! And another. And now he bounces off the rope and takes him down with a clothesline!

Lance:

All done with his left arm! And you can tell JJ is thrilled to test it out in combat.

JJ now lifts Strong AF by the hair/head. JJ then crouches down and picks him up in a Fireman's Carry and he starts rotating.

THE MAN IN THE MIDDLE

A television studio. A DEFIANCE banner hangs in the background with two comfortable chairs in front. In one of those chairs, dressed in a suit, is DEFIANCE announcer Lance Warner. Across from Warner, wearing a tank top and workout pants, is Levi Cole.

Lance:

Levi, I want to thank you for joining me here tonight.

Levi Cole:

My pleasure, Mr. Warner.

Lance:

I wanted to sit with you tonight to discuss the controversy at which you now find yourself at the center. Last week, we heard from your mentor, Ned Reform, for the first time since DEFCON. He challenged Masked Violator One for a contest at Maximum DEFIANCE. But beyond that, he seemingly laid a large responsibility at your feet. Levi, he has given you the power to decide whether or not Ned Reform remains in DEFIANCE.

Cole doesn't say anything. His eyes flicker in uncertainty.

Lance:

We've seen your friendship with MV1 develop in recent months. But we also know you deep your ties with Mr. Reform go. Now you're being asked to choose between the two - it seems both men are drawing a hard line in the sand. I have to ask: where is your head at?

Cole's eyes flicker again. He sighs and shifts uncomfortably in his chair.

Levi Cole:

Been having a tough time with this, Mr. Warner.

Lance waits, seemingly expecting more. When Cole doesn't elaborate, he probes a bit.

Lance:

I can imagine. Can you talk a bit about your relationship with MV1?

Levi Cole:

He's a great guy. Real kind heart, you know? He's had my back and I really appreciate that. A truly loyal friend. Someone I like working with.

Lance:

Sounds like you've made up your mind then, huh?

Cole scowls.

Levi Cole:

Do you know how much I owe Doctor Reform, Mr. Warner? What he's done for my career? For me personally?

Lance:

Some might argue that you've already repaid him for that ten times over...

Cole sighs, and leans back. He rubs his hands through his blond hair.

Levi Cole:

I just don't know, Mr. Warner.

Lance:

Well, you're going to have to choose. It's no secret that Ned Reform's contract status with this company has been uncertain over the past few weeks. And now that Mr. Reform has an "out" of this company, he's putting it all on you whether he goes or not. You choose MV1, Reform says he is gone. You return to Ned, and he stays in DEFIANCE. So... what is your decision?

A long pause. Uncomfortably long. Finally, Cole reaches down and rips the mic clipped to his shirt off. He mouths "I'm sorry" off mic before storming away, leaving a flabbergasted Lance Warner. Warner shakes his head as we fade out.

TRIPP WISE vs. LEE LAZ

Before taking on one of our newcomers, Ria Lockhart, we've got Tripp Wise in action going one-on-one against Lee Laz of OnlyFlips!

Tripp Wise made no bones about the fact he was sour that he had to be within BRAZEN's developmental program for the last several years while a newcomer like Ria Lockhart gets right to the top. But Lockhart, a veteran with over ten years experienced, worked hard in her own right to get here.

DDK:

Meanwhile, we're gonna see if Lee Laz can fare any better than his partner, Kenny Yi, did against Victor Vacio by taking on a main roster star in Tripp Wise. Let's go to Darren Quimbey for the next match!

BRAZEN ONSLAUGHT CHAMPIONSHIP: LORD SEWELL (c) vs. ???

DDK:

Coming up next, we've got a new addition to tonight's card... Lord Sewell of Gentlemen's Agreement will be putting up his newly-won BRAZEN Onslaught Championship in an open challenge tonight against any member of the BRAZEN roster! How'd this come about, Lance?

Lance:

During the last BRAZEN Double Shot, then-champion George Othello was set to defend the title against the "Royal Guard" of Gentlemen's Agreement, Earl Roberts. Instead, Lord Sewell -- a main roster member - demanded the shot in his place. Sewell subsequently won the match and the title with help from that loaded white glove he and Oliver Tarquin Monroe like to use!

DDK:

Gentlemen's Agreement have been demanding title opportunities and when they weren't getting it, they went to BRAZEN and took one for themselves. Now, we'll have to see who will get this chance to step up to a main roster talent! That match is right now!

And now on over to Darren Quimbey at ringside.

Darren Quimbey:

The following singles match is an open challenge set for one fall and it is for the BRAZEN Onslaught Championship! Introducing first...

♪ "Land of Hope and Glory" ♪

The theme plays and out walks Lord Sewell, wearing a red overcoat with yellow epaulettes, while being applauded by his longtime tag partner Oliver Tarquin Monroe, who is wearing a dark gray sleeveless coat over a well-tailored shirt and tie, which fits snugly to expose his muscular frame. MV1:

For a man with your self-professed intellect and worldly experience...

He lets the set-up hang, listing in the moist breeze for a moment under the bright lights of the Ernest Tubb Record Shop marquee, before reeling it back in.

MV1:

You may not actually be the smartest man, Dr. Reform.

The Honky Tonk Highway glistens beneath a drizzling rain as downtown Nashville's nightlife powers on despite the inclement weather. Above the noise of wet tires and chatty sidewalk-strollers creeps the sound of a half-dozen music acts, wafting from the doors of several establishments on both sides of the street; Music City lives up to its name.

Standing out starkly amidst the pedestrians, mostly under umbrellas, is the masked man walking down the street. Under no umbrella and not minding, the scarlet of his mask is accentuated by the red neon lights of the establishment he drifts past. He finds that people offer him a respectful, if not puzzled, berth.

MV1:

I'm not trying to be insulting... I'm just being honest.

Blue eyes glancing up at the neon blue, red, and yellow "RIPPLED ROBIN" sign, he halts, head turning for the door. His pause allows us to hear some wailing blues emanating from inside the bar. His smile widens before extending that pause to allow a couple to pass ahead of him and duck inside, quickly folding their shared umbrella along the way.

Masked Violator #1 follows them in, as does our view, the sound crescendoing as we enter a dimly lit dive-bar. The surly bartender nods in MV1's direction as the masked man takes a stool at the bar. MV1 nods back with a lop-sided grin. When next he speaks, his voice admittedly competes with the live band melting across the room in the corner, but he is well-mic'd and comes through clearly.

MV1:

So quick to write off and dismiss everyone you encounter. So quick to presume and assume.

The bartender pops a cap and slides a frosty, dark beer bottle in front of MV1. MV1 politely drops a ten on the bar in front of him and slides it to the barkeep with another friendly nod of the head. He takes a sip, raises both cloth eyebrows at the bottle, then sets it back down nicely on a crusty cardboard coaster – eyes settling on the camera now behind the bar.

MV1:

Take this place...

MV1 sits back, glancing around the bar - and the camera sweeps on cue. Two stools down, a middle-aged man nurses a whiskey, mindlessly scrolling through his phone. Seated at the high-top behind him, a first date plays out before us as an earnest young lad chats up a smiling young lass. Behind them, two men argue, at each other and at the high-mounted TV. In a dingy corner, a four piece band desperately in need of upgrading two of them plugs away at basic 12-bar blues, bored out of their minds.

As we pull back, we see everyday people everywhere.

MV1:

Take these people.

#1 laughs at himself, shaking his head.

He shakes his head, eyes flitting from drink back to lens.

MV1:

I know you're busy crafting some kind of speculation and chatter about your supposed contract situation, but putting all of that nonsense aside... the money DEFIANCE pays you isn't pulled out of the air. It's the very people you talk down to and marginalize that cuts your check, Doctor. And yeah, they're incredibly willing to pay to see you get yours. They can't wait for you to get shown up, again. Ask anyone. America, and the World, loves to see you get embarrassed. They love watching you SUCK, Ned.

A group of women pass behind MV1, holding up index fingers and WOOO'ing unironically.

MV1:

I bet that's hard. Having an arena-full of screaming people who hate your guts. That can't be easy.

Eyes unfocused on the foreground, MV1 fiddles with his beer bottle for a moment then adjusts his weight on the stool.

MV1:

You're an interesting study, Doc. So seeking affirmation and acceptance. Was it abandonment? Where were YOU hurt, Doc? What happened? You know enough to know that you should look at that. We all carry something, Doc. What are YOU carrying? And why do you insist on pushing it on innocent people like Levi Cole?

Nervously picking at the bottle's label, MV1's eyes find the camera again.

MV1:

What's with people like Nigel Trickelbush? With people like Ned Reform? You've got me at MAXIMUM DEFIANCE, Doc. One-on-one in the ring. That's your chance to put up or get shut up. Why do you have to pull Cole into this? Really though. What's inside of you where you feel compelled to poison him?

His red mask is twisted, an angry grimace beneath.

MV1:

I'm asking... for a friend.

Pushing the bottle away, he sits tall.

I'm asking for ME.

Wood scrapes wood as #1 pushes his seat back and stands up.

MV1:

I don't claim to be a genius like you, but... You want Levi Cole to take responsibility for your DEFIANCE future.

He makes brief eye contact with our off-camera gruff bartender and offers him one final quick nod, then locks with the lens once more.

MV1:

Like with Lord Nigel... Don't put it past me to dictate your DEFIANCE future, Doc.

MV1 turns to take in the band as the lead singer howls something particularly heartfelt and the camera sweeps the room, fading to black.

AURORA KAYE vs. NO FUN DEAN

The camera shows Aurora Kaye stretching in the locker room.

Lance:

Aurora Kaye is the daughter of Tabitha Kinsey. Everyone familiar with her said she was as naturally talented -- if not more -- than her mother, who was one of the most legendary wrestlers of all-time. Aurora had all of the tools -- strength, speed, athleticism and an innate knowledge of technical wrestling. In fact, an urban legend has it that Aurora Kaye once countered The Kinsey Leglock, redubbed The Gembreaker and used by Tabitha's charges The Company Men, when training with her mother. And no one has ever been able to solve that puzzle!

There's old footage of Tabitha Kinsey in the ring hooking her dreaded Inverted Figure Four, following by more recent footage of each member of The Company Men hooking to move onto Raiden and JP Reeves of NDR.

Lance:

Aurora was primed for stardom. To distance herself from her mother, she went under the name Aurora Kay. She wrestled in several regional promotions, and had some preliminary matches in the CSWA, which was one of the premier wrestling leagues of its time.

Aurora Kaye is in a CSWA ring against an undisclosed opponent. There's footage of her walking backstage with Zoltan and a younger Teri Melton in the background, giving Aurora a dirty look.

Lance:

But she soon became pregnant with her daughter, Caitlyn Kinsey. She was a proud single mother. But tonight, after years in the making, Aurora Kaye makes her national television debut!

Aurora turns to the camera with a very serious look on her face.

Aurora Kaye:

I have no regrets at all about giving up wrestling so I could focus on raising Caitlyn. Me and Caitlyn, we could not be closer. But, yeah, I'd be lying if there wasn't a little part of me that didn't want to at least make one appearance on a big, national stage. So, tonight's the night, as Rod Stewart would say... ## SOUTHERN HERITAGE CHAMPIONSHIP: HENRY KEYES (c) vs. COUNT NOVICK

DDK:

It's Main Event time here on UNCUT! In what can only be described as a mismatch on paper, "The Kraken" Henry Keyes has chosen to defend his Southern Heritage Championship - on the EVE of MAXIMUM DEFIANCE, no less - against Count Novick!

Lance:

This all stems from what took place previously on DEFtv - we all bore witness to the Henry Keyes SOHER Spectapalooza, sponsored by IHOP, and while the festivities started out great for Keyes, things took a turn!

DDK:

Rezin threw some verbal HEATERS in the direction of his former friend and Vae Victis as a whole, and then he blasted Henry Keyes as a cherry on top...and then, like a cherry on top of THAT cherry, Novick emerged and threw down the challenge for the SOHER!

Lance:

Does he really think he's going to woo Lindsay Troy?

DDK:

To do it, he'd have to stop one of the most dominant runs we've ever seen in DEFIANCE...so, no. I don't think he will.

On the DEFiatron, a castle on a hill. In a crackling thunder storm. The entire screen turns black and white with a filter that makes it look like an old talkie. A burst of lighting, and we are now inside the creepy medieval castle, and a figure shrouded in shadow slowly rises from the floor like a plank. And then...

♪ "Bloodletting (The Vampire Song)" by Concrete Blond ♪

A burst of fog billows out from the rampway. And in the center of that fog, a figure. A figure shielding himself from prying eyes by using his cape to hide his face. But there's no mistaking who this... and The Faithful sure know...

The Faithful:

AH!! HA!!! HA!!!

And with that, the cape is dramatically swirled away, revealing one half of the new BRAZEN tag team champions: Count Novick! The Count is dressed in usual gothic inspired ring gear, but also sports the gold wrapped around his undead waist. Novick grins a dastardly grin to the sea of Faithful cheering for him, creeping toward the ring with an exaggerated stride as his head shoots back and forth. Halfway down the ramp, he stomps directly in front of the camera to raise both eyebrows in quick succession before continuing his creepy dance to the ring.

Darren Quimbey:

Ladies and gentlemen, the following contest is for the SOUTHERRRRRRRRRN HERITAGE CHAAAAAMPIONSHIIIIIIIP! Introducing first, the challenger! Hailing from Bran, Transylvania, and weighing in at two-hundred and one pounds... HERE IS... COOOUUUNT... NOOOVVIIIIICK!!

It's a sPoOoOoKy sight as Novick dramatically bares his teeth before ducking his face behind his cloak, turning his attention back up the ramp.

It's doom and gloom and familiar text and beacons. All pink beacons, perhaps held over from the Spectapalooza - though sadly, we don't get the sweet marching band to play his theme. Keyes is not happy, and there is no pomp or circumstance in his stride. The pomp and circumstance has already been ruined for him after the events of the Spectapalooza. He just wants to hurt someone.

Darren Quimbey:

And his opponent...hailing from San Francisco, California! He is the reigning and defending SOUTHERN! HERITAGE! CHAMPIOOOOOOON! "The Kraken"! HenryyyyyyYYYYYYY KEEEEEEEEEEYES!

BOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO!

Keyes has already unstrapped his championship belt and passes it to referee Carla Ferrari as he locks onto Count Novick. Ferrari lifts the championship aloft for full camera view, and as if anticipating Ferrari's cadence, Keyes has taken a couple steps forward and his arms swing out wide just before Ferrari calls for the bell!!

My GOD, that might be it!

Count Novick CRUMPLES to the mat, and Keyes just chuckles. And chuckles again - my word, we're practically at a full giggle! He motions to a few of the Faithful in the front row and starts jawing at them.

Henry Keyes:

Should I pin him? Ya think? Is that right??

The fans throw up the big double-thumbdowns and boo and boo. Keyes kneels beside the fallen Novick, locks eyes with the fans he was jawing at, and goes for the "pin"...referee Carla Ferrari gets to a one count, and then Keyes just shoves Novick away! He rolls across the ring to the apron - Keyes follows him and shoves a second time, sending Novick spilling to the outside!

Henry Keyes:

WRESTLERS get pinned, you dolts! Referee, count out this trash!

Keyes takes this as an insult and decides the expedite the wait in between The Last Time He Hurt Novick and The Next Time He Will Hurt Novick by rolling to the outside, grabbing the Count by the head, and throwing him back into the ring. Keyes follows, and as both men reach their feet, Keyes immediately throws a Propellor Edge Chop! Another chop! Keyes has Novick against the ropes now, then grabs him by the ribcage, and HEAVES...

Count Novick just went FLYING across the ring! And look Keebs, look - the momentum of the throw sent Novick to the outside once again, and Keyes is back to barking at members of the Faithful!

The cameras pan over to the fans that seem to have grabbed Keyes's attention. It looks like a small group of grungy, scruffy bastards, all wearing different iterations of Rezin merch. One fan with a little salt in their beard has the Rezin anarchy-style logo on his shirt, another wears the Favoured Sinner design. The woman up front, a full head shorter than her friends, has the newest APUNKALYPSE NOW! merch and seems to be the main instigator with Keyes.

Henry Keyes:

You like Rezin so much, do you? Well guess what! Now THIS is happening!!

With a start, Keyes again follows Novick outside, heaves him back under the bottom rope, and power-stomps up the steps to re-enter the ring. He's got the wrists locked, and he throws a heavy knee...

Lance:

I know he normally likes to go for two, but he should really just finish this match now - Novick hasn't even come CLOSE to performing an offensive maneuver in this match!

Instead of going for the second Coin, Keyes releases the wrist locks and hoists Novick off of his feet. He repositions and hoists Novick upon his shoulders, and begins to spin and spin!

I get what you're saying: "Look how silly it looks when I do the things you like", that sort of idea?

DDK:

He's making a pretty over-the-top goofy face Lance, I don't know if you can see it - but that's exactly what it seems like he's saying.

Keyes's tongue is sticking out and his one uncovered eye is wide and pointing in nonsensical directions as he spins in place with Novick on his shoulders. After a couple more spins, Keyes pushes his shoulders up and sends Novick tumbling to the mat and back outside. Keyes laughs maniacally as boos continue to rain down.

Lance:

Enough is enough, Carla Ferrari should consider stopping this!

DDK:

And look, the so-called Greatest SOHER of All Time is so tough, he's still letting a few of the Faithful get under his skin! Look at this!

The fans start a "THAT'S NOT PUNK ROCK" chant in their row, which grows to a few rows, then to a section, then throughout the arena. Keyes scowls at this and shouts at Ferrari to begin her count. Ferrari admonishes Keyes again, and the two begin to bicker.

Henry Keyes isn't asking. He doesn't know to ask, is the problem. His eyes are red at the sight of Rezin shirt after Rezin shirt after anti-VV sign after booing fan. And so he doesn't see who's measuring him from the other side of the ring, ready to launch.
