Lance:

Welcome ladies and gentlemen, to an action pack night 2 of DEFtv 198!

DDK:

The path toward DEFCON continues, and we have a heck of a show lined up for tonight. We are mere moments away from seeing Uriel Cortez, a man currently mired in controversy, square off with the returning MV1!

The camera shifts to the ring where we see the ring set up for Ned Reform's Office Hours segment: the ring is covered in a red carpet, there is a dark brown desk and black office chair off to the right of the hard cam, the top left turnbuckle corner is home to a large filled bookshelf, and in the center of the ring is a psychiatrist's couch and a large stool. The camera lingers on the set for just a moment before...

The arena lights go out as Ned Reform's new, slightly tweaked theme begins to play throughout the Rogers Arena. The notes of Beethoven's classic blare through the sound system as the DEFiatron scrolls past several purple music notes in tune with the song. Finally, as the theme builds, several musical notes swirl across the screen... the music builds to a crescendo...

And the guitar kicks in as the house lights come back on, swirling a bright purple. As the crowd begins to boo, Ned Reform saunters slowly through the curtain dressed in a tweed jacket and wearing a purple bowtie. You likely couldn't surgically remove the smirk from The Good Doctor's face as he ever-so-slowly walks toward the ring. He pauses at the top of the ramp, looking around the arena and meeting the negative reaction with a devil-may-care demeanor.

DDK:

That match is coming up soon, ladies and gentlemen, but first we are joined by this man: Ned Reform, a man likely riding high after what many are calling a career-making victory over Mikey Unlikely last month at DEFIANCE Road.

Lance:

And before that, he claimed a win over Bronson Box. We can rightly scoff at Reform's bluster all we want, but even his biggest detractor would be hard-pressed to deny his recent success.

Reform slowly walks down the ramp and behind him appears TA Cole, TA Horrigan, and TA Owens appear behind him. With his goons in tow, The Sage on the Stage makes sure to milk the negative reaction for all it's worth before stepping up the ring steps. He wipes his feet on the apron before stepping into the ring.

DDK:

Rumors on the internet have been swirling about who will be Ned's guest in his Office Hours segment tonight.

Lance:

If you recall last year, he sent shockwaves through the industry when he challenged famous businessman Elon Musk to a DEFCON bout... while that turned out to be a publicity stunt, one has to wonder what he has planned for this year.

Ned Reform has a mic in his hand as he motions for his theme to die out.

DDK:

Something tells me we're about to find out.

Reform doesn't speak right away - he pauses, still grinning, to give the people a chance to get all their boos out. Finally, he brings the mic up.

Ned Reform:

Before we begin tonight...

He turns to the rest of the Honor Society. TA Cole stands eagerly, TA Owens rests against the corner, and TA Hoorigan is sitting in the office chair.

Ned Reform:

Gentlemen. Regrettably, I have to inform you that tonight's edition of Office Hours... is for winners only.

A beat. Cole looks confused. The two members of Weighted Grade seem to think that he's joking.

He is not.

Ned Reform:

Am I being unclear? Let me be more forthright: of the four men in this ring, only one was victorious at DEFIANCE Road. Therefore... anyone who did win at the event should make themselves scarce.

DDK:

Unbelievable.

Lance:

The team of Weighted Grade and TA Cole failed to win the Unified Tag Team Championship at DEFIANCE Road, and it seems their leader is none too pleased.

Reluctantly, and perhaps a little resentfully, TA Hoorigan taps TA Owens on the shoulder and motions for the two big men to leave the ring. Cole holds out a little bit longer, throwing his hands up in confusion at his mentor. Reform returns this gesture with a stone face.

Ned Reform:

I expected more out of you most of all. Now go.

Like a sad panda, TA Cole exits the ring, joining his fellow Honor Society members as they walk up the ramp.

Ned Reform:

Very good. Now that that's out of the way...

He breaks out into a smile and gestures all around the arena.

Ned Reform:

Hello, children!

BOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO!

Ned Reform:

Before I introduce tonight's guest, indulge me for a bit of pondering. You see, as I approached the arena tonight, it occurred to me that there are three truths I should have been fully anticipating. One: I was wrong to expect competence out of my compatriots. Two: I have entered a miserable country full of miserable people. And three...

Ned stops to allow the "BOO"s space to breathe. He casually leans on the top rope, looking out into the masses as he speaks.

Ned Reform:

And three. I should have expected... well, this. It's been three years together, children. Three years on this turbulent, contentious, and illuminating voyage. And while these three years have seen much change, there has been one constant...

Pause for effect.

Ned Reform:

I am always right.

Pause for boos.

Ned Reform:

Nearly one year ago, I proclaimed myself the greatest professional wrestler this company has ever seen. And what have I done since then? Why, what I always do: back up my claims with actions and undeniable evidence. I soundly thrashed your paragon of heroism, Masked Violator One. I dominated and humbled a so-called “pillar” of this promotion when I annihilated that relic of a bygone era they call Bronson Box. And I demonstrated that four hundred ninety-nine is merely a number when I embarrassed Mr. Michael Unlikely even more so than his latest film. I have offered IRREFUTABLE proof that I, Dr. Ned Reform, am everything I have professed to be. Perhaps even more. And yet... I have yet to earn my due admiration for you all.

Reform shakes his head.

Ned Reform:

But as I said, I should have anticipated this. You boo and you jeer, and no amount of logic or hard empirical data is going to change your minds. No... you see, your objection to me is not logical. If it was, you'd have no choice but to concede the point to me. Instead, your response to my pontification is purely emotional: that is, inherently illogical and born out of that sinister emotion the Bard referred to as the green-eyed monster. In short: you are jealous. I could amass one hundred victories... nothing I can do will ever change that.

Reform nods. Moves away from the ring.

Ned Reform:

So a different approach is warranted. Instead of, how they say, “propping myself up,” I will instead bring everyone else about this miserable organization down. If I can't make the case to you that I am the greatest competitor in the history of DEFIANCE, I shall instead demonstrate to you just how little the history of DEFIANCE is worth as a benchmark. I've already begun this process with Mr. Box and Mr. Unlikely. I will continue this trend: every week I will invite another figure from DEFIANCE's past onto my Office Horus. And every week I will expose that “legend” for a fraud. I will continue to do this until I am given my due respect.

DDK:

Is... is he really doing this?

Lance:

Who does he have tonight?? We heard it was someone big...

Reform gestures toward the entrance.

Ned Reform:

No time like the present, yes? I have invited one such legend to join us here tonight. Someone I believe the DEFIANCE Faithful have been clamoring for. So I say this... I know you are back there. Come out, friend, and show let's have a dialogue.

We haven't seen this man, Jason Reeves..... better known as Stalker.... in some time!

Lance:

Reeves and Reform have had their issues... or more acutely, Reform and Jessica Reeves have... what could have brought this former FIST of DEFIANCE back into the fold!?

As a rainbow of Reapers line the aisle way, one figure takes center stage. As he steps forward, we see it all: the bald head, the scars, the black track suit... and yet...

BOOOOOOOOOOOOO!

It becomes very apparent that this is not Stalker. Instead, it's a 130 pound scrawny young man in a bald cap. His gangly limbs wave as he begins to walk toward the ring. As the fans begin to turn on the segment, we get a quick shot of Ned Reform who looks absolutely puzzled at their reaction. "Stalker" meanwhile, stumbles down the ramp trying to look menacing... and failing.

DDK:

I shouldn't be surprised by this. None of us should be.

Lance:

Ned should be careful. The real Stalker may be gone, but he's always lurking... and I doubt he'd take very kindly to this mockery.

"Stalker" stumbles up the steps and enters the ring. The music dies down. Reform steps forward, greeting his guest warmly and ignoring the jeers of the people.

Ned Reform:

Mr. Reeves. Thank you so much for joining me. I have to say, this is quite the moment, yes? What have we in this ring? "Stalker": [off mic]

Reform nods sympathetically.

Ned Reform:

Of course. Say, I've been meaning to ask... who is it that ran over Jessica Ree... OH MY GOD!!! LOOK OUT! IT'S THE FALSE HEROES!!

Reform widely gestures behind "Stalker." The man turns, and when he does, Reform kicks him sharply in the ass, sending him tumbling over. The Good Doctor has a good chuckle at this as the scrawny man scrambles to his feet. "Stalker" takes on the classic "fighting stance" which only causes Ned to laugh more. As "Stalker" tries a right hand, Ned easily dodges, slips behind... and proceeds to give "Stalker" a wedgie.

DDK:

Oh, come on.

"Stalker" howls in pain as he dangles by the underwear. Finally, having enough of this, Reform grabs him by the back of his head and roughly tosses him over the top rope. As he does, "Stalker"'s bald cap comes off, remaining in Ned's hand. Reform looks at it and shrugs. On the outside, the now injured man begins to limp up the ramp as he screams frantically.

"Stalker":

TO ME, MY MINIONS!!

The Reapers tend to their "boss" as they all disappear behind the curtain. In the ring, Ned holds up the bald cap to a chorus of boos.

Ned Reform:

What a shock... Jason Reeves is as big a fraud as his hair, apparently.

Visibly upset by Mil's words, Uriel takes a moment himself.

Uriel Cortez:

Mil and Titaness look even more infuriated with his words.

Uriel Cortez:

I know neither of you want to hear this right now... but I STAND by what the hell I've been saying for months. What Titanes Familia has been doing before... that ain't working. Kindness gets you stepped on. Faith only gets you stabbed in the back. For weeks, I was doing what I needed to and I became one of a very few list of people who made it to four successful defenses of the Favoured Saints Title... Hell, I beat Oscar fucking Burns when I did things this way! But because I listened to Dan pleading last minute to play fair... I hesitated... and I lost everything...

MV1 IS MY HERO, PART 1

The lights in the arena go back. The DEFiatron shows an old filmstrip countdown clock of 5-4-3-2-1 before the filmstrip "melts" on-screen before showing various clips of the faded glory of The Melton Estate in Hollywood and old film clips of the starlets of yesteryear interspersed with recent footage of Madame Melton and Her Most Precious Gems in action.

♪ "How Soon Is Now" by The Smiths ♪

Her silver flapper curls have clearly been done at the finest hair salon in British Columbia, with her silver/silver/silver look. Madame Melton leans over (showing her ample cleavage) as she grabs the title from JJ with her right hand, points at it with the other and mouths the word "mine." The spotlight follows as she starts her walk to the ring, her nose triumphantly held high in the air with a facial expression that reads "HAHAHAHAHAHAHAHA," flanked by The French Connection, with JJ popping up onto his feet screaming various things to the fans.

DDK:

And here comes our new Favoured Saints champion, who last week at Uncut made some truly disturbing remarks at his "coronation" ceremony -- along with his companions, a collective that has wreaked havoc throughout DEFIANCE these past few months, with their most recent victim being the legend Mikey Unlikely!

Lance:

If you were to tell me that after Uncut 148 that The Gems-- after they defeated their arch-rivals The Estate of Tabitha Kinsey in a bloody War Games match -- would become such a diabolical, demented outfit, I would not believe you. I don't think anyone saw any of this coming -- their chaotic ruthlessness, their viciousness and certainly with the Favoured Saints title in their clutches!

The French Connection hold the ropes open for Madame Melton to enter the ring first, before they follow. JJ hops on top of the ring apron and slingshots himself over the top in a somersault, where he then takes his place kneeling and he holds his hands out wide. Melton snaps her fingers and the music abruptly stops, with the arena lights turning back on. Raiden points for two microphones.

JJ Dixon:

Ever since I became the Favoured Saints champion, there is only one person I have been thinking about non-stop. There is one person I wanted to thank. Because this person is someone my career will forever be entwined with. I am talking about someone I shared more than just a ring with at my — our — breakout match at DEFIANCE Road 2023... but someone I share a bond with forever. I am talking about MV1.

JJ holds up his "1" index finger, and the camera shows multiple children wearing his mask, doing the same.

JJ Dixon:

You see, while MV1's entrance music may be a different Pearl Jam song... you can't find a Better Man here in professional wrestling. MV1 gives his time to kids in hospitals, to the infirmed, to anyone who needs his help! And that includes yours truly. Because MV1 was the only person in my life to warn me about Caitlyn Kinsey. But when I told him I loved her, he gave me a hug and was the designated driver at my bachelor's party at Medieval Times. And after she dumped me at our wedding, he was the only person outside of The Gems to ask me how I was doing!

The camera then cuts backstage with MV1 sitting on a stool, icepack on the back of his head, watching the TV monitor intently.

JJ Dixon:

MV1 is the man I wish I could be. MV1 is a role model. MV1 is, to be truthful, my hero. I, too, wanted to be a hero. I still want to be. I know he's not too happy with my recent attitude change. But.. but I only became the type of person to jab a cigarette holder in the eye of another man because of how you people treated me. Of how you turned your back on me and, worst of all, Mommie Dearest. BECAUSE YOU PEOPLE BETRAYED ME!

JJ's tears well up as he paces around the ring.

JJ Dixon:

Sadly, MV1 know what betrayal feels like. TA Cole. Scott Hunter and, most famously... Corvo Alpha —

The crowd cheers loudly.

Corvo!

Corvo!

Corvo!

JJ Dixon:

You cheer Corvo Alpha's name because ... why? Because you support abandoning your family? You support abandoning your best friend — someone who is a truly good and heroic person! JUST LIKE I WAS BEFORE YOU TURNED ME INTO THIS MONSTER! I have to forever live with the guilt of what I did to win this title — of stabbing a man in the eye with a sharp implement — all because it's the only thing I can do to put myself back together again! And I know that despite my conscience... I am going to do some truly horrible, truly despicable things these next few weeks just so I can feel some level of grace within my soul!

Booooooooo!!!

JJ Dixon:

Corvo Alpha is also described as a monster! But he's not. And he's not a man, either! Because Corvo Alpha feels no remorse for what he has done! He acts on instinct alone. And do you know what else acts on instinct alone? ANIMALS! CORVO ALPHA IS A WILD ANIMAL! And wild animals like him... belong in a cage!

The DEFiatron shows Corvo Alpha from just about one year ago, kept in a cage while Lord Nigel stands above him.

JJ Dixon:

Corvo Alpha. I am not just going to tear through four opponents to get to you! I am not going to the truly disgusting things Madame Melton and myself have mapped out just to become the SOHER. I am going to put you RIGHT BACK IN THAT CAGE WHERE YOU BELONG! And I am not just doing this for myself... or for my fellow Precious Gems... or even for Mommie Dearest...

JJ falls to his knees and holds his one finger high in the air.

JJ Dixon:

I am doing this for my mentor. I am doing this for my role model. I am doing this for my hero. I AM DOING THIS FOR MV1!

Booooooooo!!!

DDK:

Does JJ truly mean this? Or is this some kind of mind game Madame Melton has engineered?

Lance:

Or, even more troubling... a combination of the two!

Madame Melton:

You must understand that we are the Big Game Hunters of DEFIANCE! Why, just last night you saw what we did to Mister Unlikely! Pelts shall adorn the walls of my grand estate as we begin my greatest masterpiece!

Melton's eyes are wide, as she gesticulates madly.

Madame Melton:

INTRODUCING: DSN-001

WARNING: INCOMING ROGUE TRANSMISSION

WARNING: INCOMING ROGUE TRANSMISSION

WARNING: INCOMING ROGUE TRANSMISSION

The familiar claxon rings through your speakers, until we smash cut...

...to that familiar lab.

We are introduced, up close and personal, to the behemoth of a man first spotted in a glass tube the last time we visited here. A familiar voice presents him to us.

Dr. Ayumi Sato: [voice-over]

DSN-001... code name: Fat Man.

The monster raises his bowed head and flashes a ravenous, toothy grin. His hair is bleached and cut into a combined mohawk and mullet, and his clean-cut face is painted in a scheme of black, neon, and saffron orange.

Dr. Ayumi Sato: [voice-over]

My first creation, whom has had a number of tweaks and modifications until reaching his final form. And soon, I will unleash him upon the DEFIANCE ring.

Cut to: a fuzzy video of the monster known as Fat Man, clobbering some poor sap in the middle of what appears to be an independent wrestling show of some kind. His unfortunate opponent tries in vain to block Fat Man's meaty forearms clubbing into the side of his head as the beast roars in sadistic glee.

Dr. Ayumi Sato: [voice-over]

Designed to maximize his hitting power, Fat Man delights in using forearms, headbutts, and charging attacks to subdue his opponents...

Cut to: another video, in what appears to be the same venue as the last. A much-larger opponent bounces off the ring ropes to charge at Fat Man, only to be floored by a BIG headbutt between the eyes.

Dr. Ayumi Sato: [voice-over]

...before he flattens them with his dreaded Atomic Splash.

Fat Man grins at the crowd, before bouncing off the ropes himself, and landing a big splash onto his opponent, covering him for the three-count victory.

Dr. Ayumi Sato: [voice-over]

His vicious assaults and his appetite are his defining characteristics... and sometimes, he puts them together.

Smash cut of various instances of Fat Man biting opponents in the ring, with the final shot being him grinning with a jaw covered in blood. The screen freezes and slowly de-colorizes for dramatic effect.

Dr. Ayumi Sato: [voice-over]

This exact fate awaits all those who cross him... and me.

Cut to: what appears to be some kind of videolog, with the Mad Science Queen herself looking into a camera on her desk. She is still in her trademark white lab coat and dark goggles, glowering towards us.

Dr. Ayumi Sato:

The Age of Sato is coming, DEFIANCE, and whoever you think can stop us... will be proven wrong in the worst way, and...

meoow?

Dr. Sato stops mid-sentence as a black cat just casually makes its way into our view, walking towards her and meowing again.

Dr. Ayumi Sato:

Tch, Archimedes, what are you doing in here, you silly cat? I thought I locked the door?

Archimedes makes his way towards Dr. Sato, climbing up on the sleeve of her coat...

Dr. Ayumi Sato:

H-Hey!

...and climbing his way up onto her shoulder, where he curls up and rests, purring audibly as the scientist looks at us with a combination of embarrassment and annoyance.

Dr. Ayumi Sato:

Tch... fiiiiine. You know I can't stay mad at you.

She reaches her hand up to the top of his head and gives him a little scratch, before reaching the camera and shutting off the feed.

MV1 IS MY HERO, PART 2

The static comes back before cutting back live to Madame Melton, who has been continuing her rant the entire time.

Madame Melton:

— And, trust me, you are about to see the four most dominant wins any holder of this title has ever had! Because I have already orchestrated this promotion's Bittersweet Symphony!

Booooo as Melton closes her eyes and pantomimes conducting an orchestra.

Madame Melton:

Months ago, I started to reach out across this roster — to those you choose to love more than us — offering a match this evening against JJ Dixon. We had no takers. They didn't think we had anything to offer them in terms of prestige or their desire to further their careers! They believed themselves HIGHER on the food chain than us. They overlooked us. They dismissed us. They ignored us. Because none of them had the foresight to see this coming!

Madame Melton smirks as she looks at the title still on her shoulder.

Madame Melton:

I saw it coming. Because for months, I lobbied the powers that be for us to have a chance at this title. I cashed in certain... favors... I have accrued over time! And mark my words! After DEFCON, we will be the most feared, powerful entity here in DEFIANCE. What you are about to see in JJ Dixon's first title defense tonight you will find truly heinous. But understand this -- the arrogance of you our so-called heroes could have put a stop to all of this tonight! But instead, they and everyone else will soon see why we will become the most powerful, feared entity in DEFIANCE... and exactly why MADAME MELTON! IS READY! FOR HER CLOSEUP!

She taps the title belt. As she does, Referee Mark Shields rolls into the ring behind her, clearly checking out his on-again/off-again lover's body.

Madame Melton:

Mister Quimbey, darling... will you please introduce JJ Dixon's first challenger?

DDK:

I am very, dreadfully curious to see who Melton has lined up! Of course, if JJ does defeat tonight's challenger, he'll go on to defend the title against the legendary Mikey Unlikely at DEF 199 -- a man The Gems devastated just last night!

Lance:

These past few months, we have seen JJ Dixon stab Dan Leo James in the eye with her cigarette holder, along with ambulance rides for Sgt. Safety and The Gulf Coast Connection, on top of last night's attack on Mikey Unlikely! Who has The Silver Vixen found for JJ's first opponent?

Darren Quimbey:

Now challenging JJ Dixon... now hailing from the city Cannes alongside the French Riviera... he is THE NEW FLYING FRENCHMAN! JEAN-PIERRE REEVES!

JJ DIXON vs. "THE NEW FLYING FRENCHMAN" JEAN-PIERRE REEVES

Madame Melton has a giant smirk on her face. Reeves pantomimes a faked shocked "Wait, me, really?" face.

Boooooooooooooooooo!!!

Reeves pops up with an incredibly smug "gothca" grin. JJ grabs the title belt and holds it high above his head as he takes a victory lap around ringside! Melton looks on adoringly.

DDK:

This is truly one of the lowest things I have ever seen in my career! The Gems pulled a damned fast one over all of our eyes tonight! Having a stablemate lay down in the ring so you can get your first title defense out of the way... that's just absolutely awful!

Lance:

The Gems promised they were going to do some despicable actions these next few weeks as JJ attempts to get those four victories to get a shot at the SOHER... and they seem to be keeping their promises, but in ways none of us expected!

The Gems pose on top of the ramp, with JJ holding the title above his head. Madame Melton coolly lights her cigarette from the cigarette holder and blows smoke in the air as she cackles.

Madame Melton:

You're up next, Mister Unlikely!

The camera then cuts to MV1 backstage, shaking his head, throwing the ice pack down on the floor before storming off in disgust.

BUTCHER VICTORIOUS vs. SCOTT HUNTER

DDK:

Coming up next, Lance, we see the start of what is being called by Oscar Burns as the VVG: Vae Victis Gauntlet for Butcher Victorious! As announced at the DEFIANCE Road Presser, Butcher Victorious seemingly back the respect of Burns after he helped Burns once again over Mil Vuelas. But now... he's being made to wrestle other members and associates of Vae Victis over the next couple of shows to prove himself to the rest of the group.

Lance:

And that brings us to right now... he has to fight... Scott Hunter? He's been closely associated with Vae Victis in the past and we've seen him appear with the group, but... how does Butcher Victorious feel about this, honestly? Why does he have to prove himself to SCOTT HUNTER when he's been more or less affiliated with Burns and the group for almost two years now? Longer than Hunter has even BEEN in DEFIANCE?!

DDK:

This just feels like more of Burns' manipulations! We saw Butcher seemingly consider leaving Oscar's side when Mil Vuelas' manager, Thomas Keeling, offered to manage Butcher. But all he has wanted is the approval of Vae Victis and Oscar Burns. I guess now is his chance to earn it in the ring, so let's go to Darren Quimbey for the introductions!

To Quimbey we go!

Darren Quimbey:

The following singles match is scheduled for one fall! Introducing first...

Hunter pumps his fists so hard with excitement that he nearly falls off of the steel ring steps. Catching the middle rope, he jerks himself back upright, wipes his boots on the apron, and steps into the ring with over-the-top energy and enthusiasm.

Lance:

Ugh. I see the Shovel is back. Joy... as if the Golden Shovel wasn't bad enough!

Oscar Burns:

Scott Hunter... tonight, you take on the greatest protege in the history of protege-ing. You take on the man seeking to re-earn his spot among the greats in Vae Victis! Tonight, from the man that brought you the D3C: The Dig Down Deep Challenge, now proudly brings to you our latest innovation: The VVG! The Vae Victis Gauntlet!

No music plays - cause he does have to earn it back to be a part of Vae Victis - but out comes Butcher Victorious in new gear! He still has on his Sharpie-colored "VV Trainee" shirt, but now is wearing all-white trunks and boots with a single burgundy-colored line down both sides. He looks extra motivated tonight and shakes hands with Oscar before running towards the ramp and heads to the ring. Hunter doesn't seem to care (or maybe understand?) what's going on.

Lance:

There's a new look by Butcher Victorious tonight! Maybe he's taking this opportunity more seriously tonight.

DDK:

He's been in the doghouse with Oscar and Vae Victis since losing the Favoured Saints Championship to Uriel Cortez. Perhaps he's looking at this as his way out!

He slides into the ring and looks up at the larger Scott Hunter. He throws up his hands and seems to get some mixed reaction from The Faithful after that fired-up intro by Oscar.

DDK:

You can't deny the unlikely success that Butcher has had in recent months. He won a DEFy as part of Vae Victis... even though Burns gave it away to Kerry Kuroyama... and he is a former Favoured Saints Champion. Scott Hunter, though, the DEFIANT Rookie of the Year!

Hunter and Victorious come face to face as Carla Ferrari gets ready to calf for the bell. Butch Vic looks determined to win tonight... Hunter, however, looks happy... to see him.

Scott looks at Oscar Burns and points at Butcher.

Scott Hunter:

He hit me in the head with his head.

Oscar shrugs, and Scott turns back to the ring, frowning.

And if that first one gets on his nerves, it gets worse when Butch Vic goes out to the apron, then takes flight with a big running elbow smash off the apron that knocks Hunter off his feet! The big shot gets cheers from The Faithful with both men down on the floor!

Lance:

A trunk pops open across the way and out of it struggles the larger Percy Collins with a two-by-four. The Game Boy appears. He was behind a large white van.

Thurston Hunter walks into the picture from the opposite direction of Ames, holding two lead pipes, CLANGING them against each other.

Finally, Cyrus Bates emerges. He was literally standing right next to Gage Blackwood but he was camouflaged into the red and black truck beside him.

Cyrus Bates:

Ahhhhh, you wanted me!?

Blackwood looks like he doesn't give a fuck. He's ready to knock Bates' lights out when Ames distracts them both. She keeps clapping, a lot louder this time. She walks over and separates Bates from Blackwood.

Teresa Ames:

Now boys tisk tisk, no need to fight.

Ames takes a moment to acknowledge the rest of her "team", already willing to inflict some damage.

Teresa Ames:

The last time Gage got into a parking lot brawl, he was out of action for an entire year!

Gage's face is red. It's almost as if his trademark scar above his right eyebrow was ready to open at a moment's notice, even before receiving a blow to the head. It's clear he wants to fight, he doesn't care about the odds.

Teresa places her hand on Gage's right shoulder. She knows she can get away with it, even though the daggers Blackwood shoots through his eyes might possibly kill another human.

Teresa Ames:

It's in your best interest to leave, darling.

Ames motions her head towards the team behind her.

Teresa Ames:

Or, you know, fight "like the noble raider" and end up in the hospital.

She shrugs, drops her hand from his shoulder and seemingly lets her guard down.

Teresa Ames:

Bronson's counting on you to be healthy when he comes back.

Thurston Hunter can't stop CLANGING those two lead pipes together. It's getting annoying, even for Ames. She tries to tell him to slow down through her body language but the idiot "thug" is too stupid to catch on.

Teresa Ames:

Gage, the only answer is to tuck your tail between your legs and live to see another day - one where Box can join you in a fight.

By now, Hunter is literally drooling at the mouth. It's not Thurston who Gage is particularly concerned with. He's really not worried about any one of them in particular, not even The Game Boy.

But the numbers game does add up. And the additional weapons they have...

Cyrus Bates chimes in.

Cyrus Bates:

Yeah. Get out; go home.

Gage is breathing heavily. He raises his left fist and looks like he's going to pop Ames in the face.

Instead, he slams it against his car.

Gage Blackwood:

Ye [censored] pigs. A'd rip ilka single yin o' yer heids aff!

His angry accent is full blown, it's almost near impossible to make out exactly what he's saying.

Ames chuckles and continues open-mouth chewing on her gum. Bates takes a step forward, daring The Noble Raider.

Gage Blackwood:

YE THINK THIS IS TOUGH!? YE THINK YE'V GIT IT OWER ME!? PATHETIC, ILKA SINGLE YIN O' YE!

Everyone waits on Blackwood's decision.

Gage Blackwood:

[CENSORED] [CENSORED] [CENSORED] [CENSORED] [CENSORED] [CENSORED] [CENSORED] [CENSORED]
[CENSORED] [CENSORED] [CENSORED] [CENSORED] [CENSORED] [CENSORED] [CENSORED] [CENSORED]
[CENSORED] [CENSORED] [CENSORED] [CENSORED] [CENSORED] [CENSORED] [CENSORED]

[CENSORED]!!!!

Blackwood's rage is at such a height, Bates has taken a step back, Percy Collins nearly pisses himself and Thurston Hunter drops the lead pipes and runs away.

The odds, however, are still in The Comments Section's favor.

And Teresa Ames never waivers.

Teresa Ames:

Sorry, were you saying you'll live to see another day?

Blackwood festers. Fumes. Slams his hands against the side of his car once again.

...And unlocks the driver's door. He rifles the engine on, peels the car out of the lot and speeds off in the distance.

The DEFIANCE signature appears in the bottom right hand corner of the screen, as the car vanishes into the distance and the focus goes back on Teresa Ames, grinning from ear to ear.

Teresa Ames:

Pathetic bloke.

She spits out her gum.

THIS.

IS.
