The BRAZEN coach and former DEFIANCE World Trios Champion gets a mixed reaction but still looks as chiseled as he always has. He heads down to the ring and then climbs up. He poses on the middle turnbuckle, flexing his tremendous biceps before he jumps back into the ring. He looks across from the ring and also throws up his muscles. FLEX does so in return and the two get into an impromptu flex-off, practically in each other's faces aggressively until Rex Knox has to step in and get in between them!

FLEX has Aleczander cornered, but the former member of Team HOSS turns it around and pushes him into the corner. Todd Dunson hits the canvas while La Angelita picks herself up and gets booed! She reacts to the noise with a sadistic smile as she looks back to Todd Dunson.

DDK:

Brooklynn getting off to a hot start... ooh! And she's going right after the left arm of Todd Dunson!

As Todd tries to push himself back up using his hands, Rivera kicks the left arm out from under him using a running penalty kick! Todd falls to the mat and grabs his arm close to him, but Rivera doesn't give him a chance to recover. She grabs the arm and slams it against the mat. Before Dunson can recover, Rivera jumps and hits a double foot stomp right on the arm! Dunson is in pain now and cradles what could very well be a damaged left arm as Rivera stalks over him.

Lance:

Ever since Dunson got jumped at the start of the match, he hasn't had any chance to really mount any kind of offense, has he?

DDK:

None at all! Not only is Rivera so tall... seemingly a Titanes Familia requirement... but she's been able to offset a power advantage by opponents with these strikes, judo throws and arm-based submission...

And with that, she goes for a fujiwara armbar on Dunson! Todd yells out in pain as Rivera grabs the arm and starts to pull back on the fingers as well!

DDK:

There's some joint manipulation as well! Rivera working over that arm and she's got a finger!

Dunson has to struggle but finally gets himself a little relief when he snatches a hand on the nearby bottom rope! Carla Ferrari starts a five-count to get Rivera to break and she holds on for four very agonizing seconds for Todd Dunson before finally releasing the hold. She gives Carla Ferrari a dirty look and then turns back to face Dunson who is now trying to stand in a corner. Richie Dunson is outside the ring trying to cheer on his younger brother as Rivera looks ready to charge.

Lance:

And here comes Rivera!

She tries to run towards the corner for a forearm, but Todd Dunson gets a boot up first and kicks at her arm! Rivera backs up and charges again blindly, this time eating a quick elbow! Dunson's left arm slows him down a little, but he fights through the pain and climbs to the middle rope before taking flight with a missile dropkick that knocks Rivera off her feet! Dunson lands on the mat and still holds his arm, but tries to get some feeling back into the joint before he can get back to his feet!

DDK:

Dunson counters with that missile dropkick! Can he follow up?

Dunson may give up a couple of inches in height to Rivera, but he flies off the ropes and then comes back with a flying forearm off the ropes! He gets back up and then charges off the opposite side to take Rivera down with a second flying forearm! After knocking her down a second time, Todd Dunson gets a polite chorus of cheers from The Faithful as he get back to his feet.
